GENEVA, April 1.—The L of Nations has failed i years of post-war efforts ward disarmament.

The fact was inescapable he day. The nations of the world must arrange their resource bear the tremendous burde armed preparedness on a scale is costing in the neighborhoo $3,000,000,000 yearly.

Europe and the world gene must continue to stagger unde present armaments load with two hopes for decreases and those promised only slight rel

1—There is to be a meager re tion in the period of service Europe's conscript armies.

2—President Coolidge's th power conference may reduce n armaments somewhat.

That was the way compe spokesmen frankly outlined the uation today after the first 10 d sessions of the League of Nat preparatory disarmament con ence here.

Fault Not League's

The fault they explained was with the league, but was that of nations who refuse to disarm. Wo the adoption by the commission the first article of the proposed u versal disarmament convention hope of any reduction in Euro present standing armies was pelled. That article dealt exclusiv with land or military armame The utmost hope extended to world was for the stabilization standing armies at their prese strengths.

With the failure of the comm sion to wring from Europe's leadi conscript nations any basis for a ual reduction of armies, no grea success was expected with eith naval or aerial armaments. Th means Europe's five leading n tions, England, France, Russ Italy and Germany, together wi Japan, will continue to mainta their present armaments budge which average $1,500,000,000 a nually, while the world total arma ments budget, of which the bulk European, will remain in the neigl borhood of $3,000,000,000 annually

Britain Spends $13 Per Capita

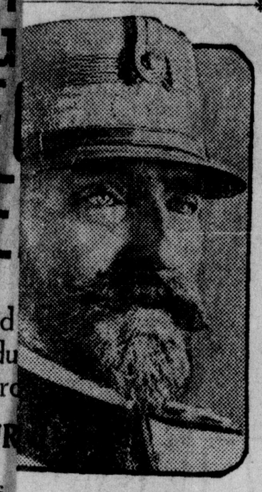

England alone now is spendin nearly $13 per capita annually o armaments; France nearly $6; Ital nearly $4, Japan $3.70, Russia $1.5 Germany $1.70. In addition to th direct expenditure, the world's lead ing conscript nations will continu to deprive their young manhood o one of the most productive period of its life for military training whil reserve classes up to an advance age must remain under obligation t sudden summons to the colors.

The leading conscript nations o the world are France, Italy, Bel gium, Poland and Czecho Slovakia. With Japan, these nations, claim ing the necessity for national se curity, have refused to accept any provision that would alter the pres ent size of their armies, decrease their maximum permanent reserves or change their conscript systems, except that they agreed to the pos sibility of a decrease of the present period of conscript servic.

While the commission still must discuss the problem of limitation of armament budgets, it was not ex pected that any nation would ac cept a limitation which would pre vent maintenance of equipment of the armies which they refused to reduce.

FORD SECRETLY IS REMOVED FROM HOSPITAL TO HIS HOME

Doctors' Bulletin Reports Billionaire's Back Still Pains

(By United Press)

DETROIT, April 1.—Back in his own hom at Dearborn, on the outskirts of Detroit, Henry Ford, injured Sunday in an automobile accident, still was in much pain today, but in the formal bulletin issued by his physicians, no alarming developments were noted.

Ford was removed secretly last night from the Henry Ford hospital, in Detroit, to his home, a great, gray stone mansion sitting a half mile back from the main highway at Dearborn.

Ford's own desire to get away from the hospital environment and have the comforts which his millions have brought him was understood to have been the reason for the transfer of the famous patient.

The formal bulletin, issued at 11:15 a. m., at the Henry Ford hospital in Detroit, said:

Back Still Painful

"This is the fifth day after the accident. Last night Mr. Ford was moved from the hospital to the residence. His sprained back still is most painful.

(Signed) "R. D. McCLURE,
"D. F. SLADEN, M. D."

The bulletin was issued only after long delay.

During the early morning hours it had been promised by hospital attendants at 8 a. m. As the hours passed without any word from the surgeons, rumors flew thick and fast, some containing grave stories as to Ford's condition. Then word came that Dr. McClure, chief of Ford's medical staff, was operating on another patient.

It was not until after that operation was completed that any bulletin was issued.

The removal of Ford to his Dearborn home was a carefully carried out affair. Two ambulances, one of which was from Ford's own hospital garage and the other a commercial ambulance, were brought to the hospital. Ford was placed in one of the ambulances. His garage attendants said he was in the commercial car; the owners of the commercial car said he was in the ambulance he made and owns himself.

Clear Hospital Halls

While the patient was being carried through the corridors to the ambulance, the halls of the hospital were cleared. As far as could be learned, only one person not in the employ of Ford or the hospital saw what was transpiring. Then the two ambulances moved to a point about a block from the hospital, where four motorcycle police joined them. A short distance farther on, the cavalcade split, one ambulance and two officers going by one route, the other ambulance and two other officers by another. Later they joined, it was said.

The machines sped over the concrete road, a distance of some nine miles to the Dearborn estate of the motor king, where once inside the gates Ford was in a place where he could be as out of touch with the world, should that be his desire, as was Napoleon on St. Helena.

18 MISSING AFTER STEAMER COLLISION

LONDON, April 1.—The British steamer Author and an unidentified Spanish ships collided early today eight miles southeast of Gibraltar, a dispatch to Lloyd's said.

Eighteen members of the crew of the Spanish vessel were reported missing. The ship was believed to have foundered.

The Author, leaking, reached Gibraltar, the dispatch said. A naval tug rescued half the Spanish ship's crew and was still searching for the rest.

The Author was bound for Calcutta from Liverpool.

No word had been received today of the fate of Spanish troops aboard the steamer Tordera, reported afire yesterday off the Gomera Rocks. The steamer Castilla answered the SOS call.

Dog Is Hero, But Little Master Is Dead

MARTINEZ, Calif., April 1.—"Rags," airedale dog, was a hero today, but his playmate is dead. The animal, hearing the screams of Stephen Lotz, 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lotz, ranchers, when he fell into the San Joaquin river, plunged into the stream and swam to shore with the child. Dragging his chum onto the sand, the dog howled until help came, but the boy was dead.

LARGE GARAGE WILL BE BUILT ON NORTH MAIN

Washington Avenue Corner Purchased by Reid Motor Firm

Today, with the announcement of the purchase of the northwest corner of West Washington avenue and North Main street, by the Reid Motor company, came also the announcement by Robert E. Reid, of the motor company, that a big new garage for the Buick business will be constructed upon the property in the early part of 1928.

The Reid Motor company, agent for the Buick automobile has a lease upon the building at the northwest corner of East Third and Spurgeon streets. The lease will run out June 1, 1928. The new Buick home will be ready for occupancy by that time. Construction will commence probably in January, 1928.

The purchase at Washington and Main was made from J. T. Van Why. The sum paid was $30,000. The property measures 75 feet on Main street and 250 feet on Washington. This makes an allowance for the opening of Sycamore street northward from Washington avenue. The Reid Motor company building will occupy the entire property.

Reid said that plans for the proposed new building have not been drawn. In a general way, he said, his purpose is to put up a two-story structure, so that overhaul jobs can be done on the second floor, with light repair jobs on the first floor.

'PETTICOAT WILL' BATTLE DROPPED

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—A will, scribbled on a "petticoat," has successfully withstood the assaults of learned lawyers to break the document. As a result, Mrs. Lorraine Moody Richmond, of Los Angeles, probably will receive $500,000 bequeathed her by George W. Hazeltine, Los Angeles "pauper."

Attorneys for 10 appellants yesterday agreed to discontinue opposition to the probating of the will.

Hazeltine, known to his neighbors as a "scrap" collector up to the time of his death, had willed his fortune to two attorneys, but on his death bed had a change of heart. Calling for paper, none was to be had, so a nurse volunteered her petticoat. The freak document was scribbled on its hem. Mrs. Richmond, great grand niece, was named beneficiary.

Man Is Killed In Bootlegger Feud

LOS ANGELES, April 1.—Tony Ferrarra, police character and reputed wholesale bootlegger, was found shot to death here today, the aftermath, police believe, to a liquor feud.

Ferrarra's body was found sprawled over seven 5-gallon cans of olive oil in a big touring car parked in a side street near the downtown district.

A policeman, walking his beat, discovered the body, which apparently had been thrown into the rear seat of the automobile by the slayers.

NORTH CHINA OUTBREAKS ARE FEARED

U. S. Warship Is Ordered to Proceed to Tientsin, 70 Miles Southeast Peking

NINGPO IS EVACUATED

Chiang's Dismissal as Cantonese Chief Is Reported As Imminent in Shanghai

(By United Press)

SHANGHAI, April 1.—Foreigners today were evacuating Ningpo, south of Shanghai, and indications that authorities feared anti foreign outbreaks in north China was given when the U.S.S. Asheville was ordered to Tientsin, about 70 miles southeast of Peking.

It was reported from an authoritative source today that Marshal Chiang Kai Shek's dismissal as commander in chief of the national Chinese armies was imminent. He has been the leader of the moderate element among the Nationalists.

The United Press was informed that the order removing Chiang from command had been drafted at Hankow, now the capital of the Nationalist government, but that it would not be promulgated before next week.

Chiang Kai Shek's fall, it was expected, would bring the differences of opinion within the Nationalist party into sharp relief. There probably would result a showdown between Chiang, on the one hand, and the extremists of his party on the other. This possible revolution within a revolution was looked upon as having large potentialities.

1500 MORE MARINES ORDERED TO SAN DIEGO

WASHINGTON, April 1—Fifteen hundred marines were ordered today to concentrate at San Diego, Calif., to be held in readiness for China service.

This group is independent of the 1500 enroute to San Diego for transport on the Henderson to China.

The concentration of the additional marines at San Diego was ordered by Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, commandant of the marine corps, upon request of Adm. C. S. Williams, commander of the Asiatic fleet, who asked that they be held in readiness on the west coast.

Three tanks, two batteries of artillery and a company of engineers will be included in the contingent from Quantico.

U. S. UNDECIDED ON ACTION FOR PROTECTION

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Following a cabinet discussion today of the Chinese situation, the administration remained undecided whether to act alone or jointly with other powers in demanding guarantees of the Nationalists for protection of foreign lives and property.

Unless sudden emergency arises, President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg may delay their instructions to Minister MacMurray several days, it was stated.

The state department continued its study of the joint draft demand prepared by MacMurray and the British and Japanese ministers in Peking. The administration is understood ready to ask indemnity for the Nanking outrages of March 24 and for suitable Nationalist pledges that such outrages will not occur elsewhere. But this government is not yet committed to issuing an ultimatum of a sweeping nature, which the British are reported to favor.

Fourth Suicide Attempt Is Failure

FRESNO, April 1.—Mrs. Sam Purdy may fail in what local police say is her fourth attempt to commit suicide.

Mrs. Purdy was found in a bedroom of her home late yesterday with a bullet wound in her head. Hospital attendants said this morning that she is alive and there is a possibility she will recover. Officers declare their records show that Mrs. Purdy has tried to end her life twice with poison and twice with a revolver.

NIGHT SESSIONS ARE ORDERED BY ASSEMBLY

Lower House Takes Action In Effort to Recover Lost Time

(By United Press)

SACRAMENTO, April 1.—Night sessions have been ordered by the state assembly in a desperate effort to recover lost time and keep abreast of the rapid working upper house.

Last night's session of the assembly resulted in adoption of 19 measures, a greater total than that of any single day's work thus far.

Comedy, parliamentary burlesque and practical jokes broke the weary monotony of law making and served to keep the assemblymen on their toes during the night.

Close on the heels of committee action sending the bill abolishing interlocutory divorces decrees to the floor, the assembly last night approved the "alimony for husbands" bill, by Assemblyman George W. Rochester, of Los Angeles.

Husband Could Sue

It would permit a husband to sue his wife for permanent support of himself and children in case of divorce.

Wives would be allowed to take over one-half the community property in case of the death of their husbands and the other half would become subject to the will of the deceased, under terms of a measure by Assemblyman Percy West, of Sacramento.

This bill would permit the wife to receive her share of the community property without payment of an inheritance tax. It was adopted by the assembly after a lively debate.

One of the state reorganization measures, taking the state library out of the department of finance and placing it under the department of education, by Assemblyman Eugene W. Roland, of Alameda, also was adopted.

Could Make Own Rules

Among the other measures adopted at the assembly night session were the following:

Burns and Hornblower bill, providing for nomination of presidential electors either as individuals or by group, subsequent to primary elections, when no nonpartisan candidate has been named.

Williamson bill, permitting amateur boxers to use bandages on their arms or hands.

Jesperson bill, permitting the adjutant general to lease camp sites and rifle ranges for use of the National Guard.

Mrs. Woodbridge bill, providing that the state shall purchase the Donner monument from the Native Sons and place it under the new division of parks.

THREE ARE DROWNED

Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma Also Feel Rage of Elements in Terrific Gale

(By United Press)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 1.—Whipping four states with a heavy rain, driven by high winds, March took a parting shot at the southwest, leaving in its wake devastation over thousands of acres of land.

Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas and Oklahoma felt the blast of the storm with a resultant flooding of hundreds of small streams. From two to five inches of rain fell yesterday in these states and was continuing today.

Arkansas was the hardest hit, with levees of the Mississippi giving way before high waters and with thousands of acres of land in the Laconia Circle area inundated. Further damage was feared in that section with the river continuing to rise.

Seven deaths were reported, four in Oklahoma, two in Kansas and one in Missouri.

Four of the deaths resulted from lightning, which accompanied the storms. Leslie Jones, 17, was killed on a golf course at Springfield, Mo., when lightning struck near where he was playing. Two caddies were made unconscious by the bolt.

R. R. Christine, Parsons, Kas., was killed when lightning struck his blacksmith shop there and Ivan Fry drowned when he fell from a bridge near Baxter Springs, Kas.

Elvin Trusty was killed near Muskogee, Okla., when lightning struck a barn and Joe Burroughs was killed when a bolt hit his office, in Davenport, Okla. The other two Oklahoma deaths resulted from drownings, one near Fairfax and the other near Mountain View.

The storm struck at widely separated spots, reaching almost tornado proportions in several small towns. Buildings in Norwood, La., Carterville and several other Missouri towns were torn down. Jasper, Carthage and Joplin, Mo., were almost isolated. Highways and railroad lines are blocked and telephonic and telegraphic communication disrupted.

FEAR FURTHER DAMAGE AS RAIN CONTINUES

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 1—Anxiously watching reports from flooded Despa county, authorities here today feared further damage to the stricken area, as rain swept over Arkansas, bringing high water to all parts of the state.

The Mississippi river is continuing to rise, according to reports here today and levees in Laconia Circle, already weakened by floods, may further give way as a result.

Thousands of families, left homeless when the yellow water poured through the breaks, are being cared for in box cars, makeshift shacks, tents and any sort of shelter which could be thrown up on short notice.

Due to the fact that flood warnings had been broadcast before the levees gave way, no lives have been lost and there was little damage to personal property. It is estimated that 25,000 acres of land are under water.

STANFORD-TROJAN MEET POSTPONED

STANFORD UNIVERSITY Cal., April 1.—The dual track and field meet between Stanford and U. S. C., which had been scheduled here for tomorrow, was definitely postponed until Saturday, April 23, by agreement of both schools today.

Rain which fell throughout the night and continued today made the track and field at Stanford stadium exceedingly slow and also dangerous for competitors.

The Stanford-California baseball game and the Stanford frosh track meet with San Francisco high schools, both slated for tomorrow, were also postponed.

Temblor Is Felt In Central Japan

TOKIO, April 1.—A slight earthquake shook the Tango district in central Japan at 6 a. m., today. The quake caused a panic among residents of the district, scores of whom had not recovered from injuries received in the severe quakes which recently rocked the Tango and adjacent districts, causing heavy loss of life.

TRIO HELD FOR DEATHS OF BULLET-RIDDLED DEPUTIES

(By United Press)

BORGER, Texas, April 1.—Deputy sheriffs Elmer Perry and Pat Kenyon were found dead beside their automobile, five miles north of Borger, today, their bodies riddled with bullets and their pistols partly emptied.

Soon after their bodies were discovered, Borger police arrested three men, believed to have killed the officers in a pistol battle and who also are believed to have been the trio that robbed the First National Bank of Pampa, yesterday.

Ed Fields, Borger druggist, found the slain men in the road. The automobile was marked with bullets and Kenyon and Perry were dead on the ground beside it.

The trio of suspects, police said, are Ed Bailey, Hugh Walker and Whitey Walker and were at liberty on bond in connection with the death of Patrolman Coke Buchanan, who was slain by bandits here two weeks ago.

The victims, S. A. Sleeby and Tom Smaja, both San Fernando, were returning from a trip to Bakersfield wh the heavy car, traveling at a speed of 60 miles an hour, sped through San Fernando and

SEE HOPE FOR REMEDYING OF RADIO STATUS

WASHINGTON, April 1. — A preliminary investigation has convinced the federal radio commission that it will not be necessary to close down any large number of the 733 broadcasting stations now in operation in the United States.

Hearings on the radio situation began March 29, but the study has proceeded so far that the commissioners are satisfied that practically all of the operating broadcasters may aid in solving the problem.

"If it were necessary to cancel a whole body of licenses in every part of the United States and to work out interference everywhere because it was as acute as that around New York and Chicago, I am inclined to think that the commission would resign in a body and that it would be impossible to get any set of human beings to face the job," Commissioner Bellows said.

"But happily the congestion existing is pretty well localized. Of the 733 stations operating, it is perfectly amazing to find that a large number want to send only a few hours in a week and merely wish to reach a restricted locality. A great number of these stations can be fitted in together by proper allotment of time, wave lengths and localities.

The interference largely comes from the great stations which seek fairly continuous operation and conflict with each other. Even here it is the hope of the commission that we shall be able after considering the whole country to notify the broadcasters at Chicago and New York, for instance, to work out an adjustment that will eliminate the trouble. If they do not work out an adjustment the commission will make one and enforce it."

3 CHILDREN ARE BURNED TO DEATH

MODESTO, Calif., April 1. — Three children lay dead here today, while the father and mother suffered severe burns in a fire that gutted their home last night.

The victims, children of Mr. and Mrs. Juan Sandoval, were:

Yetima, 4 months; Santiago, 5 years; Termosa, 3 years.

Juan, 6 years, was rescued.

An oil stove exploded as the family was going to bed. Mrs. Sandoval rushed to extinguish the flames, but finding her efforts futile, returned to rescue the children. She was able to reach Juan, the others perishing. The father was badly burned when he attempted to enter the house.

LITTLE MINING DONE AS WORKERS STRIKE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 1.—Approximately 150,000 bituminous coal miners throughout the central competitive district were on strike today for a retention of the present wage scale.

The vast collieries through Indiana, southern Illinois, Ohio and western Pennsylvania were quiet this morning, as strike notices were posted by company officials, who insisted that the present wage scale—providing approximately $7.50 per day—was too high.

Very little mining was being done throughout the district. The only mines remaining in operation were ones in which wage agreements already had been reached.

POLY STUDENTS CAVORT TODAY IN RUBE DRESS

Students and faculty members joined today in observing the fun festival celebrated each April first, set apart as "Rube day" at the Santa Ana high school, when foolishness is at a premium and the best hick is the cock of the walk for a day.

Old attics were explored by students to find some of the costumes which they wore this morning.

The class room recitations, except for occasional girlish giggles over some particular funny impression, was conducted as usual. Decorum in the classes was difficult, in many instances where the teachers themselves were rubes, entering into the spirit of the event, but nevertheless the regular recitations were followed.

Pent up excitement was to be unleashed this afternoon when the students were to attend the weekly assembly at 2 o'clock.

The prize rube will be decided at the assembly. Other special features have also been provided, including a mock debate and a hilarious farce act, "The Tub," presented by the high school drama class instructed by Ernest Crozier Phillips. Following the assembly a dance will be held in the gymnasium from 3 o'clock to 5 o'clock.

Some of the boys came to school dressed in outfits that had been taken out of sister's bureau.

CHINESE REAL SOLDIERS, SAYS CHEYENNE MAN

CHEYENNE, Wyo., April 1.—American public opinion egregiously underrates the Chinese soldier, according to Charles "Chuck" Warren, Cheyenne newspaperman, who recently returned from the Orient.

"Too many Americans regard the Chinese situation as more or less a comic opera affair—entertaining but not important," said Warren Friday, stressing the gravity of developments in China. He continued:

"When a third of the population of the world, or 450 million people, are involved in civil war, the grand finale may bring stunning surprises.

"I had imagined the Chinese soldiers to be something of a cross between the ferocious, slant-eyed satyrs, as pictured in western countries, and the other conception of the peaceable coolie—an agriculturist at heart, a pacifist always. A trip through the wire entanglements between the native city and the foreign settlement at Shanghai revealed to me a modernized, well-equipped and well-trained army. If the tales I had heard of the Cantonese and the imperialists stopping their battles at nightfall or because of inclement weather, or to exchange diplomatic greetings, were true, the troops certainly did not look the part."

Independence for the Philippines is largely a political gesture, Warren believes from his observations during a brief visit in the islands.

"Conversations with the natives," he said, "convinced me that, at least as far as Manila is concerned, much of the agitation for independence is more or less a political gesture by which parties hope to capture the vote of the common people."

1925 WEALTH OF U. S. 355 BILLION

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 1.—The national wealth of the United States amounted to 355,300 million dollars in 1925, according to the estimate of the national industrial conference board.

The last estimate made was the census estimate of 1922, when it was calculated at 320,080 million dollars. In 1912 the census estimate of the national wealth was 186,030 million dollars.

In terms of 1913 purchasing power of the dollar, the board estimates the national wealth at 188,000 million dollars in 1912 and at 223,090 million dollars in 1925.

The board pointed out that the nominal increase in wealth of 90.7 per cent during the thirteen year period thus becomes a real increase of 19. 1per cent or almost one-fifth.

Sapiro Testifies To Getting Loans

DETROIT, April 1.—Aaron Sapiro appeared before the U. S. war finance board some time in September, 1921, and obtained credit loans for "10 or 12" farm co-operative associations, he testified today during cross examination in his million dollar libel suit against Henry Ford. For this service, which Senator James A. Reed sought to show happened within a very few days, Sapiro admitted receiving approximately $20,000 in fees, including travelling expenses and incidentals.

The relations between a young man and a girl are often the latter's parents.

Kiss Shortens Life 3 Minutes, Collegians Say

GUNNISON, Colo., April 1.—Three minutes of life foregone.

"Kiss and die young, for every kiss shortens life three minutes," is the verdict given out by the "future psychologists" of Western State college, who made a survey of this momentous question in genetic psychology.

Computing on that basis, 480 kisses would take one day of life away, and 3,360 kisses would eliminate one week. Then, only 175,200 kises would exclude the kisser from one year of 365 days of living on this fair earth. "Is it worth it?" questions the Gunnison "joy killers."

This is ho wit works: The kiss causes such palpitation of the heart that the extra beats of that organ amount to the norm-ber which take place in thinutes. Thus the heart is ovsed and weakened until threetes of the kissed or kisser's are taken away.

Thomas L. Zook, well known Los Angeles inventor and former newspaperman, is among the guests at Hotel Rossmore. In addition to his spinal rejuvenator for the relief of persons suffering from spinal troubles, Zook has invented a citrus fruit spoon to be used in eating oranges and grapefruit. The spoon is equipped with perforating points and cutting edges between, which puncture instead of bursting the cells containing the fruit juice, preventing squirting and splashing of juices. Both inventions have been patented and are now on the market. Before devoting his time to inventions, Zook was connected with several newspapers.

Annul Marriage Plea of Mother

Neither bride nor groom were of age and both lacked parental consent to their marriage, it was charged today when Mrs. Helen Davis, of Anaheim, filed suit in superior court to annul the marriage of her son, Charles Paul Cullen jr. and Ethel Wilhoit Cullen.

The suit alleges that Charles was but 16 years old, while Ethel was 17, when they ran away to El Centro to wed on last December 4.

Wounded Poilus Are Honored In Paris Monument

PARIS, April 1.—A great monument dedicated "To Those Who Suffer" will soon be set up in Paris. It will represent the Christ, His cross on His shoulders, supported by figures of poilus, laborers and a horde of halt, lame and blind.

The sculptor, Maxime del Sarte, is himself a wounded poilu. He lost his left forearm before Verdun.

He considers the statue his masterpiece. The monument, already acquired by the Paris municipality, will be placed either on the heights of Montmartre, or in front of the Pantheon, where France's illustrious dead repose. The latter place was once adorned by Rodin's statue, "The Thinker."

Maxime del Sarte is a descendant of Andrea del Sarte, a Florentine master whom Francis I, husband of Mary, Queen of Scots, brought from Italy to embellish his domain. Like his ancestor, del Sarte would like to serve a king of France. He is an ardent royalist, and is always in the front line when royalists battle the police of the Third Republic. His one good arm can wield a stout cane.

His career as a militant royalist started when he was a student of 18 at the Sorbonne, and publicly spanked his professor of history, with the aid of fellow students, because he had disparaged Joan of Arc in a lecture. Del Sarte, badly damaged by the police, was put in prison for his escapade. Later when Clemenceau, then minister of the interior charged with maintaining public order, saw and admired del Sarte's work at a wartime exposition, he sent for the artist he had imprisoned. When he saw the war-maimed soldier promoted from volunteer private to a lieutenancy for gallantry he took him in his arms and kissed him. Since then the two have been fast friends.

ASK JUDGE TO DECIDE AFTER JURY FAILURE

A jury having failed to agree on merits of the dispute, the lawsuit between J. E. Gormley, real estate man, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoefer over a commission and a damage claim, aggregating $2250, will be submitted to Superior Judge Homer G. Ames for settlement, it was announced today.

The case was tried before a jury, which disagreed, 7 to 5. Attorneys for plaintiff and defendants will appear before Judge Ames April 7, it was decided, and will stipulate that the court shall decide the case on the evidence presented to the jury at the trial.

Gormley sued for $1100 realty commission, for $150 as a broker's commission on a loan he claimed to have negotiated for the defendants, and for $1000 as damages to Jeanne King, owner of property at Culver City, which Gormley claims the Hoefers agreed to take in exchange for their Orange county property. The Hoefers later refused to make the deal.

They oppose the suit and claim the agreement was not binding upon them because the $5000 loan procured for them by Gormley was not as agreed upon.

DROWNING VERDICTS RETURNED BY JURY

Following an inquest over the body of Mrs. Faith Mettler, Fullerton woman, killed in an automobile accident near Los Alamitos Tuesday morning, the jury returned a verdict of death from drowning when her machine overturned in an irrigation ditch. The inquest was held at Seal Beach, late yesterday.

Rumors that an effort would be made to show that the car driven by Mrs. Mettler was struck by another machine and knocked into the ditch were held as groundless by Coroner Brown. The report was not brought out at the inquest.

An autopsy performed at the Mottell undertaking parlors at Long Beach, prior to the inquest, revealed that Mrs. Mettler was not seriously injured in the accident but that she was pinned in the wreckage of her car with her head under water, Coroner Brown said today.

'Sea Gull Plane' With 'Air Brakes' To Be Tried Out

NEW YORK, April 1.—A new type of airplane, designed to take off from "a field the size of a pocket handkerchief" and for landing on the roofs of buildings is ready for testing here.

Leonard W. Bonney, trained in 1910 by Oroville Wright and one of the veteran pilots of the country has completed the machine after two years' effort.

Tests, he said, will prove whether he is "just another nut" or "ten years ahead of everybody else" as a designer.

The machine is fashioned after a sea gull. Many of the principles of bird flight, particularly those for making quick stops in alighting, were used in the new design.

As soon as the plane touches the ground the wings cease to support the machine and act with their full surface as air brakes to stop forward motion. A further application of this principle folds the wings back along the fuselage until the machine can be run into a hangar with a door fifteen feet wide.

The elevators may be spread in flight as a blackbird "fantails" while on the wing. The wings and tail surfaces are of duraluminum.

HURD FUNERAL PROBABLY WILL BE ON MONDAY

Friends and relatives of Lauren (Pat) Hurd, Orange county state traffic officer, who died suddenly at the Santa Fe hospital, Los Angeles, yesterday morning, following an operation, were today making arrangements for his funeral.

Plans so far, are indefinite, it was said. The funeral will be held at the Winbigler Mission funeral home, on North Main street, sometime next Monday, that is all that is known at the present time, his brother officers said today.

This afternoon, in Los Angeles, a coroner's inquest into the exact cause of death was to have been held, Coroner Nance of Los Angeles county, announced. Coroner Charles D. Brown and several of the state officers here left early this afternoon to attend.

An autopsy was performed this morning in an effort to learn the cause of death, and the results will be made known this afternoon.

The body of Hurd will be brought to Santa Ana late this afternoon.

BREA

BREA, April 1.—Members and guests of the Brea Woman's club met in Sewell hall on Tuesday afternoon to celebrate the second anniversary of that organization, there being more than 100 present. The program proper was presented by the ways and means committee, with Mrs. Edna Shaffer chairman, and consisted of a burlesque of the balcony scene from Romeo and Juliet, with Mrs. Julia Schweitzer and Mrs. Lina Russell ludicrously gowned, depicting these lovers.

Craig's hall is to be the scene of a merry affair, when the members of the Legion auxiliary give their box social there on Wednesday night. The boxes are to be auctioned off at five cents a bid. Costumes, however, are to be the poorest that can be found. Arrangements for this affair are in the hands of Mrs. Rosella Rudd, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Ruth Craig and Mrs. Ella Stumbo.

Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Jarvis, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Anderson, narrowly escaped injury at midnight Saturday, when the sedan in which they were riding failed to negotiate the turn at the foot of the hill coming out of Fullerton and the car was overturned in the ditch when the steering wheel broke off. All were badly bruised but no serious injuries were sustained by any. The car was badly damaged, most of the glass being broken, the fenders smashed and body crushed.

A 10-pound son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hill at their home on South Laurel Saturday. This is the first child in the home. Both mother and son are doing nicely.

O. S. Close has leased his soda fountain to Ed Christainsen, of Los Angeles, an experienced man in this line, who will take possession tomorrow. These men were friends in South Dakota, where both at one time owned drug stores. Mr. Christainsen, since coming to California about four years ago, has been connected with drug stores in Los Angeles. He replaces Otto Leander, of Fullerton, who has been dispensing soft drinks in this store for the past year.

Mrs. Florence Anderson was hostess on Monday to last year's officers of Ami Tai chapter, O. E. S., at a meeting which is observed once each month by the women. The affair began with a luncheon served by the hostess at which covers were laid for the following: Mesdames Margaret Titus, Tillie McMahan, Stella Schultz, Mrs. Lou Finley and her mother, who is visiting here from Montana, Clara Close, Mattie Wilson, Mary Raynor, Ida Clark and Mrs. Buxton.

After a visit of several weeks in the home of their son, Clifford Blackmore, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Blackmore left the last of the week for their home in Rifle, Colo.

Bringing with her the tiny son who arrived at their home recently, Mrs. C. D. Freisen, of Bakersfield, has been visiting at the home of her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Corlett, of this city. Mrs. Freisen will be remembered as Miss Margaret Corlett and for several years was associated in the clerical department of the First National bank, Brea.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rudd and daughter, Miss Marion, recently went to Compton, where they were guests at the silver wedding anniversary of an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William Blake. The birthday anniversary of three cousins were observed at this time and covers were laid for 55 friends and relatives at a dinner. On Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Rudd entertained for luncheon, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hill and two sons and Mrs. Arthur Hill, of Los Angeles, cousins whom they had not seen for many years.

Eczema Itched And Burned Severely Cuticura Healed

"My baby started breaking out with eczema when he was about two months old. It was in blisters and itched and burned severely causing him to scratch. His clothing aggravated the breaking out, and he lost much sleep on account of it. He was cross and fretful and kept me awake nights.

"I tried different remedies which seemed to help for a while and then the trouble would break out again. When he was about nine months old I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. It helped him and when he was thirteen months old he was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Chas. Urban, Larrabee, Iowa, Aug. 4, 1926.

Beaux Arts Members Join in Musical Program

Beaux Arts club-members, those youthful musicians of the city, banded together to further their musical interests and progress, will meet on Saturday night, April 9 in the Earl Fraser studio in the Greenleaf building, where pupils of various of the foremost teachers in the city, will present the program.

The evening promises to rival in interest, the latest meeting of the Beaux Arts members in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gustlin on North Main street. At that time, a program of piano, violin and vocal numbers varied with interesting papers, offered entertainment to the young musicians assembled, and a number of distinguished guests including Mrs. Ella Duffield, state junior chairman, Mr. and Mrs. Gustlin the hosts, Ione Tunison Peek, club counsellor and other of the city's mature artists.

Miss Dorothy Mayhew and Miss Marian Bruner offered papers, the former showing the value of research and study in her "Life Sketch of Schumann," and the latter displaying marked originality in in the manner in which she presented "Schumann's Musical Characteristics."

Ione Tunison Peek was represented on the program by Imogene McAuley and Bertha French, in Schubert and Brahms compositions. Miss Leonora Tompkins presented Florence Hutchins in a Mendelssohn number and Florence Resnick, playing a Schubert Impromptu.

Of Elwood H. Bear's violin pupils, a quartet composed of Ema Lena Richards, Rose Marie Smith, Jerry Tannenbaum and Simon Plas, rendered a Brahms Waltz, and Georgia Belle Walton gave two Schumann numbers.

Miss Mary Bruner, a pupil of Mr. Gustlin, played a Schumann "Novelette," and Robert Bradford, pupil of Madame Manuela Budrow, sang Schumann's "Bygone Pleasures" and "The Rose and the Lily." Everard Stovall, young protege and pupil of Earl Fraser continued the Schumann series by playing "At Evening" and "Soaring," and the program came to a close with a Russian group played by the guest-artist, Miss Elizabeth Parslow, a pupil of Clarence Gustlin. Her selections were "Harmonies du Soir" by Pachulski; "Gavotte-Caprice" by Bortkiwicz and "Mazurka" by Sapellnikoff.

Because of the charm and worth of the program, and the fact that state officers were to be present, attractive printed programs were distributed as souvenirs of the evening. Between sixty and seventy young people were entertained and several new members wer enrolled. A delightful social angle was given when Mr. and Mrs. Gustlin served punch and wafers.

Motorists Experience Sudden Snow Storm

Mrs. Mary P. Matthews, Mrs. Carl Thrasher, Mrs. James Daniels, Mrs. Roy Parker and Mrs. Guy Gardner, enjoyed a delightful trip yesterday. They left here early in the morning and reached Riverside in time to breakfast at the Mission Inn with Mrs. Matthews' cousins, Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Kerl and children, Margaret, Theodosia and Coeur d'Alene, Ida., who are winter guests in Mission Inn.

Way was then continued to Palm Springs, with the Idaho guests joining the party, and all received a decided thrill when a sudden snow storm was encountered at Loma Linda. In sharp contrast were the flowering peach and cherry orchards which followed, and then the bright sunshine of the desert and its myriad vivid wildflowers.

Return was made via Cathedral city and Indio. Mr. and Mrs. Kerl and family will spend next week in Mrs. Matthews' cottage at Catalina.

Guest from New Mexico Is Complimented at Pretty Party

Complimenting Mrs. Leonard Bond of Grants, N. M., who is spending several weeks in the home of her son, Charles Bond of South Main street, Mrs. George W. Bond entertained at a charming afternoon affair Wednesday, in her home, 507 East Myrtle street.

Flowers in rose, orchid and bright orange, were used to adorn the home and were especially effective as the floral decorations of the small tables where guests were seated at the tea hour to enjoy a dainty refreshment menu.

In an informal program which lent variety to the afternoon of conversation, Mrs. Bruce Switzler gave piano numbers, Mrs. Caleb Jackson sang and Mrs. W. E. Foote read two of her charming poems, "What Shall We Have for Supper?" and "To a Mother."

Among those asked to meet the interesting guest, Mrs. Leonard Bond, were the members of the Pegasus club in which the hostess is prominent, Mrs. Charles Bond, Mrs. Clarence Bond, Mrs. Bruce Switzler, Mrs. R. R. Caldwell, Mrs. Frank Lansdown, Mrs. Earl Morris, Mrs. W. E. Foote, Mrs. Caleb Jackson, Mrs. Fannie Lash and Mrs. Ray Brown, while other guests included Mrs. W. A. Taylor, Mrs. W. H. Mrs. C. T. Cox entertained at a delightful dinner in her home at 1202 South Sycamore street, one evening this week, in honor of her son, Seth Cox, Leslie Carmac, Miss Thelma Taylor and Billie Knight.

The occasion for the dinner was that the honored guests were to leave soon for various parts of the world. Mr. Cox and Mr. Knight left yesterday for Japan where they will aid in a geological survey; Miss Taylor will return to Emporia, Kas., where she is connected with the Santa Fe Entertainment circuit, and Mr. Carmac, who has been on the Orpheum circuit, will go to Sydney, Australia, where he will fill a vaudeville engagement.

Auxiliary Card Party Scores Success

After an evening at cards which gave entertainment to a large crowd of friends, members of the American Legion auxiliary today had a nice sum with which to continue their good work for the World war veterans and nurses in various hospitals, especially the one at San Fernando.

The card party was given last night in the Legion hall, which had been given an attractive home-like appearance with quantities of sweet peas, ranunculus, lupine and other spring flowers from garden and hillside, and also the use of many handsome floor lamps. Decorations had been planned by Mrs. Dean Collver, general chairman, and her staff of helpers.

Tables were arranged for both bridge and 500, and guests were privileged to remain at one table and pivot, and join groups for progressing, with prizes offered for both manners of playing. Attractive trophies included the great cluster of flowers presented to Pearl Hoyt for highest score of the evening among the feminine players. Men's high score was made by J. G. Shangafelt, while low scores with their attendant consolation gifts, were made by Mrs. A. B. Lindegard and C. A. Westgate.

High prizes in pivoting were won by Mrs. Helene Nelson and Ray Glidden, and in progressing, by Mrs. Carnahan and James Board. Consolations in pivoting were presented Mrs. L. M. Wollaston and Francis Westgate, and in progressing, Ann Segerstrom and J. T. Jacoby.

Late in the evening, refreshments of fruit salad, brown bread sandwiches and coffee planned by Rowena Fultz and her committee, were served at small tables centered with yellow candles tied with green bows.

Young Matron Honored By Friendly Group At Gift Shower

Guests who yesterday afternoon enjoyed the hospitality of Mrs. Frank Lansdown, 325 Grant street, were impressed with the manner in which the hostess emphasized, in her original decorations, the underlying motif of her entertaining.

For Mrs. Clarence Bond was the happy young matron complimented, and her future hopes were suggested in the cunning babies that peeped from clusters of pink and white sweet peas, swung from Light fixtures, and smiled from above the pictures on the walls. If that were not enough to suggest the motif of the affair, then it was revealed by the stately stork who guarded a sleeping baby doll in a pink blanketed crib.

Further emphasis was given by a delightful song program to which Mrs. Charles Briscoe and Miss Edith Cornell contributed. Mrs. Brisco sang "Mighty Lak a Rose" by Nevin, "I Know a Little Fairy" by Huerter and a Gertrude Ross "Lullaby," and Miss Cornell sang Tosti's "Beauty's Eyes."

The climax of the afternoon came when the surprised honoree was asked to wind a bit of pink ribbon lying at her feet. In complying with the request, she followed where the ribbon led, and found a dainty pink and white basket suspended from the chandelier of an adjoining room. The basket was heaped to overflowing with packages which proved to be all manner of exquisite baby things for the layette which she is preparing with so much happiness.

Other entertainment features included dressing clothespin dollies, suggesting appropriate names for infants, and writing advice, wise and otherwise, for young mothers. The final enjoyable feature was the tea hour when pink and white refreshments were served at tables reflecting the same lovely color note. Mrs. Charles Bond aided Mrs. Lansdown in serving.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH VERDICT RETURNED

A coroner's jury in Anaheim yesterday decided that Thomas H. Swope, 27, of Long Beach, met his death in an accidental manner. Swope was instantly killed in a gas line explosion at Yorba Linda Wednesday afternoon.

A. J. Jackson, a fellow workman, who was badly burned, will recover from his injuries, according to hospital attendants.

Funeral services for Swope will be made this evening, following arrival of his parents from New Mexico. An uncle, Charles Lewis, resides at 2226 Pasadena avenue, Long Beach.

The condition of Claude L. Smith, 47, an employe of the Union Oil company, who was injured in an oil field accident the same afternoon, is improved, according to word from the Fullerton General hospital. Heavy oil well tools fell on Smith's head, causing a serious fracture.

SANTA ANA BOYS' CHORUS IS ATTRACTING ATTENTION IN MUSIC CIRCLES; SINGS EASTER

With only a few months of the school year remaining, activities of the Santa Ana Boys Chorus, sponsored by the Santa Ana Junior Chamber of Commerce, are increasing, officers of the chorus said today. The next activity of the chorus will be participation in the Santa Ana sunrise services Eastern morning on Marcy Heights. Townspeople who intend to be present at the services, which will begin shortly after 5 a. m., will be asked to assist in transporting the young singers to the spot selected for the services.

In the last week of the present month a radio program will be given over KHJ, the station of the Los Angeles Times. This program will be given especially to call attention to the observance of national music week in Santa Ana. One of the seven evening programs planned for the week in Santa Ana will be given by the chorus and assisting artists.

Later in the month the boys will be heard in a special program at the California Valencia Orange show at Anaheim, arrangements having been completed today with H. E. W. Barnes, chairman of the orange show entertainment committee, for the participation of the local singers. Frances Beeson, director, and her assistants, Edith Cornell and Esther Jean Davis, will arrange specialty numbers for the Anaheim concert.

In June the chorus will be heard by the several hundred delegates to the state Christian Endeavor convention, to be held in Santa Ana. An appearance on a concert program by the Santa Ana municipal band has also been arranged with D. C. Clanfoni, director.

Several articles concerning the organization of the chorus, which has attracted a great dea. of attention in music circles, are scheduled to appear this month in national magazines. "Expansión," the official publication of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce, of which nearly 100,000 copies are printed, has accepted an article for publication in the special California number. The next issue of "The Western Woman," printed in Santa Ana by Ada King Wallis, will include a 400-word story concerning the activities of the chorus, its aims and plans for the future. The fact that the orange show at Anaheim granted the organization a feature place on its program and the request for magazine articles is illustrative of the widespread attention being attracted by the singing society, officers of the Junior Chamber claimed.

Although the present year is not complete, Mrs. Beeson and her assistants and Hazel Nell Bemus, art and costume director, have begun considering plans for the activities of the chorus in the fall of the year. The executive council, headed by E. Merle Hussong, and including representatives of the school board and several Santa Ana organizations, will meet soon to go over these plans, it was said, and perfect them before the second year of the chorus begins in September. One of the first activities of the second year will be the appearance at the Orange County fair, arrangements for which have already been concluded with J. R. Hunt, manager.

Inasmuch as an entirely new program is rehearsed for every major appearance of the chorus, the music teachers will be called upon to give a great deal of attention outside of their regular duties to the practice periods, it was pointed out, and the Junior Chamber officers took advantage of the opportunity to commend them for their splendid co-operation in making the organization and administration of the chorus possible.

Case Continued For L. A. Speeder

F. L. Sells, 648 Santa Fe avenue, Los Angeles, said to be the manufacturer of the 1927 automobile license plates, who is charged with speeding 67 miles an hour here, today appeared through an automobile club and asked that his case be continued until April 8. The request was granted by Justice Kenneth Morrison.

Sells was arrested by State Traffic Officer Harry Aldrich and at the time was driving a machine which more state license number 11111111.

$124 ADDED TO FRANK VAUGHN FUND THURSDAY

Contributions to the Vaughn fund have brought the aggregate to $310.50, a total of $124 being received since yesterday.

The money raised through donations will be turned over to Frank Vaughn, state motorcycle officer, who was injured in the line of duty near Costa Mesa last summer.

Vaughn is in the Santa Fe hospital, Los Angeles, recovering from an operation for the amputation of his left leg. His left hand, which was crushed in the accident, is stiff and probably will never be of use to him again.

The officer, through the efforts of the American Legion, has been able to maintain his little home at Costa Mesa. He has a wife and two children, one of the babies arriving a few months ago.

Vaughn was employed jointly by the state and by the citizens of Costa Mesa. The officer is but a shadow of his former self. He weighed around 250 pounds at the time of the accident and his present weight is said to be about 100 pounds.

HOTEL FINLEY WILL IMPROVE PROPERTY

Remodeling and improvements, including installation of modern conveniences and refurnishing of all guest rooms, said to represent a total outlay of close to $15,000, are now being carried out at Hotel Finley, 410 East Fourth street, inquiries at the hotel offices revealed today.

According to A. N. Cox, manager of the hotel, the improvements, the plans of which call for certain alterations to the lobby, have been made in anticipation of a steady increase in commercial and tourist travel. Another improvement under consideration by the hotel management, it was intimated, is the placing of individual telephones in each guest room, to be connected by a switchboard at the desk. Additional bathrooms and showers are other items on the list of permanent improvements.

GASOLINE NOW SELLING HERE AT 14 1-2 CENTS

Gasoline prices ruled here today at 14½ cents the gallon, following capitulation of the big wholesaling concerns to the attack on prices made by the Pan-American Petroleum corporation a few days ago.

Some of the big companies "broke" at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the Standard Oil company taking the lead in the break to meet the quotations of the Pan-American. At different periods throughout yesterday afternoon, agents for the various companies here were advised of the slash, and the new prices were made effective at once.

The war by the oil companies to gain gallonage by the slashing of prices evidently is not over, and motorists today were more or less anticipating a further cut by some of the producing companies which always quoted wholesale prices below those of the major producing companies.

Motorists today were hoping that the war would continue through the summer months, for that is the period of peak use, and it is conceded that gasoline at 14½ cents offers the way to cheap transportation.

To counterbalance somewhat the the cost of plunging deeper into the gasoline war, Standard Oil of California, simultaneously with the gasoline announcement, proclaimed a state-wide cut in crude oil prices, effective today, by which all grades of crude are reduced by an average of 50 cents a barrel. The reductions range from 1 cent a barrel on the heavier grades to $1.38 on the lighter grades of oil.

By slicing crude oil prices, the Standard Oil company greatly reduces the penalty of engaging in gasoline price-cutting. Most of large marketers and refiners are heavy buyers of crude oil from independent producers, preferring to buy a considerable percentage of the raw material, rather than consume their own production. The lower price for crude oil will permit the continuance of this practice by increasing the margin between the manufacturing cost and the selling price, although it is generally believed that few of the marketers can make money at these levels.

In announcing the reduction in crude oil prices, the Standard Oil company stated:

"This is the first change in crude oil prices in California since March 11, 1926, and is the result not only of an oversupply of crude oil, but of reduced prices for gasoline since that time, averaging about 6 cents a gallon."

PACKING RACE TO BE HELD AT ORANGE SHOW

Who is the world's champion orange packer?

That is to be decided at the seventh annual California Valencia Orange show to be held at Anaheim May 19 to 29, by means of a contest open to every orange packer anywhere on the face of the globe. Announcement of the contest was made today by George W. Reid, manager of the show.

Packing houses all over California are preparing to enter the contest and compete for the $500 silver loving cup offered to the house that enters their champion team of packers. In addition, however, the trophy for the packing house there are to be given several valuable prizes for the individual competitors.

Those entering the contest are to be judged on points. These are for speed, neatness, compactness, and quality. The judges are to be packing house experts who will act as official timers and observers.

The contest will be the first in the annals of orange exhibitions, it is said, and will inaugurate the first packing house demonstrations given at a show. Special equipment is to be installed to make this phase of the orange producing industry of special interest to the thousands of visitors expected to attend this year.

What a packers' contest means to the Anaheim show can be measured by the fact that there are 30 packing houses in Orange county, home of the valencia orange and between 40,000 and 50,000 persons employed in the citrus industry.

It is believed that the packing contest will become an annual feature of the Valencia Orange shows and eventually be the means of attracting international entrants.

Inasmuch as the packing is one of the important phases of the orange producing, the contest is creating more than usual interest. Many of those employed in this branch of the industry have spent years perfecting themselves in their work with the result that many are highly skillful, it is said. The individual packing houses are especially interested in the progress of their packing, for reduction of time in packing a box of fruit and the degree of attractiveness with which it is packed means considerable monetary gain to the packing houses. The public is also interested in the process, for if speedily done, it means oranges at a cheaper price.

March Marriage Record Is Broken

Though still in the annual late-winter slump, the matrimonial industry of Orange county established a new March record for the month just ended. A total of 389 marriage licenses were issued during the month, according to records of County Clerk J. M. Backs' office.

That number exceeded the February mark of 356 and had a margin of 27 over March, 1926.

Awarded Judgment

Trial of a lawsuit over a $500 note resulted late yesterday in a decision by Superior Judge James L. Allen, awarding judgment for $500, with $100 attorney fees, to S. E. Tingley. Tingley had sued D. R. Bartlett, of Huntington Beach, for that amount.

The note in the case had been given by Bartlett to C. E. Molesworth in payment for five shares of stock in the Molesworth Refrigeration Service, Santa Ana, according to Bartlett. Later the note was assigned by Molesworth to Tingley.

Bartlett's defense to the legal action was that he had given his note for stock that did not exist, and that, therefore it was obtained by fraud; also that no consideration was received for it.

TEACHER TELLS BENEFITS FROM DEBATING WORK

Debating is one of the most valuable activities afforded the students of the Santa Ana Polytechnic high school, it was declared by C. C. Stewart, forensic coach, who has brought the high school to a commanding position as a contender for the Southern California debating championship.

The Santa Ana linguists will meet the Alhambra debators tonight at 7:45 o'clock in the high school uditorium to decide which school will go into the finals for the championship.

Miss Ruth Ann Walker and David Roberts are representing the Santa Ana high school. The question, of which they support the negative, is "Resolved:: That Life Imprisonment with Restricted Powers of Pardon by the Governor be Substituted for Capital Punishment in California." By winning the debate, Santa Ana will virtually be sure of entering the finals.

"Debating gives a student a development of his mental and emotional nature which can not be obtained to such a full extent in any other way," Stewart declared.

"In no school activity, perhaps, is the student thrown on his own resources so completely as he is in debating. To be able to stand before an audience and be master of the situation is certainly the height of human achievement and must inevitably engender self-confidence.

"Closely allied with the development of self-confidence are personal initiative, a desire to ascertain the truth, a more complete mastery of diction, ability to think logically, a knowledge of how to discover and interpret facts, a practical knowledge of crowd psychology and a deeper understanding of many of the social, political and economic problems of the day.

"Debating is open to every student in the Santa Ana high school." Stewart said. "It entails hard work but it repays every effort. It affords an unusual opportunity to develop the highest human faculty, the power of thought, and the supreme ability, the power of speech."

Canine Betrays Still's Location

PRINDLE, Wn., April 1.—The faithfulness of a dog is fine at times, but on occasions it is a nuisance, according to a certain bootlegger of this district.

This particular scoflaw was very clever and defied the efforts of men from the Portland office of Deputy Prohibition Director Newell. They knew the woods concealed a still but not even a trail could be found.

One day a dog ran into the timber and the agents followed it. He led them to a 75-gallon still and a large quantity of liquor and mash.

EXCHANGE SECRETARY AGREES WITH W. H. DIXON

Editor Register—In your Public Forum column of Wednesday Mr. W. H. Dixon, contractor and builder, takes serious issue with my remarks before the Santa Ana Realty Board as to building costs.

In reality "Durable Dick" and the writer have no point at issue. He is graceful enough to identify me as an after-dinner speaker, which is highly questionable. In my little talk before the realty board I exercised no poetic license. Neither was I misquoted. The Register article merely mentioned a "high light" from my remarks, which is well enough because I do not "rate" exhaustive newspaper comment either as an individual or a speaker.

No attempt was made to generalize on building costs. In talking to the realty board an attempt was made to show the costs of additional material necessary to make for stalwartness in the foundation, framing and roof of the common five-room house; to point out how little could actually be saved by skimping on these essentials. The specific items mentioned were 20 sacks of cement additional, additional gravel, supplanting No. 3 redwood sheathing with No. 1 pine, supplanting 2x3 timbers with 2x4, adding an additional ply of felt to the roof. The cost of these items is $89.50. I know that Mr. Dixon will agree that this additional expenditure for basic materials will add very materially to the sturdiness of a cheap house.

Considering Mr. Dixon's viewpoint his comment is well taken. He is an experienced builder and knows whereof he speaks. The writer also knows that there is a very great difference in the costs of a cheated, thrown-together house and a high class structure. My auditors at the realty board know that this was not my point.

The Orange County Builders' exchange stands for better building. At the realty board the writer spoke as a representative of that organization. It is for this reason that reply is made to Mr. Dixons letter. It would be harmful to good building if the remarks of a member of the exchange were construed to minimize the worth of honest building.

Mr. Dixon's letter is full of facts which any prospective home builder can well digest. On the other hand I believe my point is wholely justified and that Mr. Dixon will concur.

WILLIAM J. TWAY,
Secretary of the Orange County Builders' Exchange.

Dr. F. W. Slabaugh Tells of Advertising Campaigns in Southland Daily Papers

More than 2,000,000 people in the eastern and middlewestern sections of the United States were acquainted with Orange county through publicity printed in daily and weekly newspapers by delegates to the National Editorial association convention, who wereguests of Orange county in June of last year, according to the report of the publicity committee of the Orange County Associated Chambers of Commerce, made by Dr. F. W. Slabaugh, chairman, to the annual meeting held in Santa Ana.

"It has been conservatively estimated that 32,000 inches of copy descriptive of the National Editorial association delegates' stay in Southern California was printed by visiting editors in their eastern and middle-western newspapers, so that more than 2,000,000 of their home people read glowing accounts of the Southland and Orange county from the pen of their local editors," the report said.

Approximately 100 inquiries every day concerning Orange county were answered by the members of the committee. These inquiries, Slabaugh said, were largely the result of the Southern California publicity inserted by the All-Year club. Inquiries were received from every state in the Union and from many foreign countries.

Empire State Leads

Most inquiries came from New York. Other states in the first 10 from which requests for information were received rank in the following order, the report showed: Pennsylvania, Ohio, Texas, Illinois, Wisconsin, Kansas, Minnesota, Iowa and Missouri. The committee mailed out approximately 25,000 Orange county booklets and used approximately 50,000 four-page rotogravure letterheads.

Arrangements have been made for the resumption of the Orange county tours, utilizing motor busses running out of Los Angeles, which tours were abandoned temporarily when floods washed away portions

H. S. PRINTING PLANT PRAISED BY EDUCATORS

Letters of commendation for the work being accomplished in the print shop at the Santa Ana polytechnic high school, as outlined in the little booklet, "Printing," issued by T. E. Williams, print shop instructor, have been received from many sections of the United States.

Williams has a packet of 12 letters from as far east as New York City, complimenting the results gained at the Santa Ana high school.

According to information in the pamphlet of the United Typothetae of America, Chicago, Ill., in which a survey of 70 printing schools in 20 states was made, the Santa Ana high school print shop is better equipped than the majority of print shops. The majority have equipment valued from $3000 to $5000, while the Santa Ana high school shop is supplied with $17,000 of equipment.

Among the collection of letters, one from the International Typographical union is prized highest by Williams.

"You are nicely located, splendidly equipped and so organized as to do the fine job of instruction work which I am sure you are doing," the letter states.

Other letters received are from the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical college; Vocational and Technical school, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Hirsch Trade school, New York city; Mount Clemens high school, Mich.; University fo California; Frank Wiggins trade school, Mergenthaler Linotype company; Stout Institute, Mennomonie, Wis.; Vocational Educational school, Milwaukee, Wis.; International Typographical union, Indianapolis, Ind.; Lathrop trade school, Kansas City, Mo.; Industrial Educational Magazine, Chicago, Ill.

PASTOR SPEAKS ON SOUTHLAND TO LIONS CLUB

Rev. Charles McKinley of Opinion Southland Building Greatest Civilization

California is building a civilization that will make the state one of the greatest units in the United States, and which will attract to it hundreds of thousands of people from all over the nation, in the opinion of the Rev. Charles E. McKinley, of Galesburg, Ill., and former president of Knox College, at Galesburg.

The minister is vacationing in California and was here yesterday as a speaker at the Lions club, President C. S. Crokshank and the speaker being college mates, the two having graduated at the same time from Grinnell college. Dr. McKinley was the speaker last night at special lenten services held at the Congregational church.

Stating that he was making his first visit to the Golden state, the visitor said he had been profoundly impressed with the hospitality he had found in Southern California and in a joking way, he referred to recent floods as probably having been only an incident in the ambition of California to make him feel at home.

"The thing in California I get most out of is not the scenery, nor the oranges, although the sight of golden fruit on the trees does make a wonderful impression; I am not impressed by the fruits, the nuts, the oil or the natural resources—the thing I get most out of is the civilization which is being built here," said the visiting divine.

He commented on the transformation of a desert into the wonderful California of today and declared that one of the things that had gripped him most was the Mission Play at San Gabriel.

"The heroism of the man who determined that California should be supreme in civilization and initiated the work of civilizing the savages who roamed the lands here cannot fail to impress one who witnesses the play," commented the speaker, in making reference to the Rev. Father Junipero Serra and his influence on the early life of this state.

He pointed to the fine school buildings and the education program of the state as outstanding features aiding in the advancing civilization here, and discussed points on technical training for boys and girls.

J. A. Henderson was program chairman. Two vocal numbers by Leon Eckles supplied the special musical program.

NEW RULES FOR S. A. GARBAGE SERVICE MADE

Clyde L. Jenken, street superintendent, has issued new instructions to residents of Santa Ana regarding the disposal of trash and garbage.

According to the instructions, everyone in the residential districts must have his garbage cans set out by 8 o'clock on the morning scheduled for garbage collection in that neighborhood. In the business section trash and garbage is to be set out by 11 p. m.

Use Garbage For Hog Feed

It was started that all garbage must be placed in approved garbage containers, as all leaky containers will be reported to the health officer for condemnation. The cooperation of everyone was asked in seeing that nothing was placed in the garbage which would damage it as hog feed, for which purpose the city sells it.

Garbage collection will take place as follows:

Monday and Thursday—all places south of Fourth street and west of Main street. Tuesday and Friday—all places north of Fourth street and west of Main street; and east of Main street and north of Washington avenue. Wednesday and Saturday—all places east of Main street and south of Washington avenue.

All trash or rubbish exceeding one cubic yard requires a 24-hour notice, as a special truck will be needed to haul it away. Such notices must be telephoned to number 1136.

Put Trash in Boxes

All trash must be placed in boxes or other receptables the total of which will not weight more than 75 pounds in order that one man may lift it. It was requested that all combustible trash be separated from the non-combustible trash in order that it may be collected separately.

Trash collection will take place as follows: Tuesday—south of Fourth street and west of Main street. Thursday—north of Fourth street and west of Main street; east of Main street and north of Washington avenue. Saturday—East of Main street and south of Washington avenue.

HOLD CONTEST TO DETERMINE BEST STUDENT

Rivalry has become close between Harold Breeding and Wyley Carlyle trackmen at the Santa Ana polytechnic high school, in the contest now at its height, to choose the best all around student, considering scholarship, activities and athletics.

Among the 12 candidates, Breeding and Carlyle are far ahead, according to the tabulation of the returns made today.

Although three girls are in the contest, none were disputing the lead of the boys.

Forum Club Sponsors Contest

The contest is being held under the auspices of the Forum club to raise funds for the debate and dance to be held at the high school tomorrow night. Chester Page, of the Forum club, is in charge of all arrangements. The clubs and organizations of the school are backing the candidates.

Page said that the contest will close at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow night at the dance and the winner will be awarded the William Lorenz prize, a pen.

A voting booth has been stationed in the hall of the high school building, where the ballot returns are posted.

Standing of Contestants

Those contesting for the "all around student" distinction are Mary Bruner, backed by the Girls Glee club; Newell Vandermast, Spanish club; Wiley Carlyle, French club; John Moffatt, Latin club; Harvey Bear, Engineering club; Hubert Prior, Forum club; Roger Hearn, Boys Glee club; Harold Breeding, track team; Roy Griset, band; Eleanor Turner, Generator; Lucille Lowell, Pallett and Brush; Arthur Brooks, Honor society.

The Forum club is sponsoring the contest for the purpose of interesting students in the debate and dance. The Alhambra high school debating team will be met on the question of capital punishment. The debate will begin at 7:45 o'clock. Following the debate, the dance will be held and the Alhambra visitors will be invited to attend.

Remodeling a pirate ship's cabin into an attic, but recently converted into an artist's studio, is one of the problems facing the scenery committees in preparation for Community Players' next offering, "You and I," according to George Gerwing, director.

When "Captain Applejack" was presented last season, a special setting was constructed for the pirate ship. It was found that the low doors and ceilings were admirably suited to the demands that an attic makes upon the scenic artist. So, for the past week carpenters and painters have been at it nightly, working quietly as possible in order not to disturb the actors who were rehearsing at the same time.

Settings for "You and I" bid fair to outrival those of any previous production.

Emil Foust, who plays "Ricky," is going about with a far-off look in his eyes, while his lips form soundless syllables, at times emitting a noise somewhat resembling the lays that ancient troubadours sang to their ladies in days when knighthood was in flower. The secret being that "Ricky" must be a master of the guitar, which he strums while wooing "Ronny" in the manner of the old time cavalier. His twentieth century interpretation of the methods of old time courtship provides one of the high lights of the comedy.

It is rare that a director is so fortunate as to have an actor who, by vocation, is master of one of the other arts. As "Matey," James Duggan must paint a portrait on which he hangs all his hopes, and which forms the basis for the play. Directorial worries have been greatly minimized through the happy chance of having one in the role whose hours away from rehearsal are actually spent in wielding a brush.

"You and I" opens next Tuesday night at the Temple theater, for a four night run. Tickets are on sale at Santa Ana Book store. The play is expected to be received as one of the high marks of Players' productions. Filled with comedy, it yet has moments of deepest pathos which should form a combination as satisfying to an audience as any production ever offered by Community Players.

ANNUAL CONFERENCE MEET IS SATURDAY

LOS ANGELES, April 1.—Eight Southern conference track teams were resting today preparatory to the annual championship meet that holds the boards at the Coliseum here tomorrow.

Dope points to Occidental college victory on the basis of their first performers who have been showing consistent form of late.

Second, third and fourth places, however, will enable any team to garner championship honors, with Pomona college, victor in dual meet competition, out for plenty of those in the field events.

The two-mile run should be a breezy affair with Waite, U. C. L. A., favored over Rentchler, Pomona.

Occidental's relayists are doped to win the four-man gallop, Pomona appears supreme in the high jump, and Caltetch, with Murray Schultz annexing both the 100 and 220 dashes, should finish well up in front.

Orange Baseball Meet Is Monday

ORANGE, April 1.—Indoor baseball team representatives of the Orange City league will meet in American Legion hall Monday night, at 7:30 o'clock, to discuss final arrangements and draw up a schedule, it was learned today.

The meeting was originally scheduled for tonight. The Legion's athletic committee will meet with the group to assist in working out the problems. Claude Potter, chairman of the committee and commander of the local post, has charge of the sport here.

WORLD CRUISE PROVIDES S. A. YOUTHS WITH MANY THRILLS

Hillman and O'Brien Work Way Around World on Steamers; Take in Paris

NEITHER HURT IN SHIPWRECK

Crew of 'Bird City' Remains On Board When Rock Is Hit; Courage Displayed

Thrilling experiences punctuated the travels of Don Hillman and Robert O'Brien on their nine-months tour of the United States and foreign lands, it was indicated by recital today by Hillman of some of the incidents on the long journey taken by the two Santa Ana men.

The accomplishments of the two young men are examples what pluck and determination may do when directed toward acquiring an education as to the habits, living conditions and occupation of peoples inhabiting foreign lands.

Nerve and energy was the full capital upon which the two youths started on their trip to "see the world," for Hillman today declared that when he shook the dust of Santa Ana off his feet he had only $5 in real American money. His companion had the same amount. They departed June 18, 1926.

Sign On Freighter

Detailing some features of their travels, Hillman said:

"After spending four days in San Pedro and keeping constant vigil for a ship that needed two 'seamen' we found the much desired in the form of a smokey old freighter bound for the Hawaiian islands. We passed an interesting nine days on the cruise, well tempered with hard work and a hot sun. About ten days were passed on the islands, and when we departed the steamer headed for Vancouver, B. C. When we listed with the crew it was our intention to remain on board the ship and go to New York, via the Panamal Canal.

"A monotonous two weeks of loading tired us. Half in disgust and half in a lark, we decided to hike across the continent to New York and arrive there ahead of the boat. We drew our pay and made our way to Seattle. Our financial condition was satisfactory, but when we saw a chance to work fighting forest fires, we took a job and spent a week aiding the fighters as well as adding a small amount to our fund—possibly with emphasis on the latter.

"Starting from Portland, via the Columbia highway, we followed the old Oregon trail, Lincoln highway and old National trail across to Washington, D. C. After visiting the capital, we went to New York. In actual traveling time, the journey required 22 days. Kindly motorists are to be thanked!

"We worked in New York for two weeks and lived in Greenwich village in hopes of getting a touch of local color. I might add, it also was cheaper. The last of September found us on a U. S. shipping board freighter sailing for Copenhagen, Denmark. We encountered a rough sea through the Peutland Firth and across the North sea. The old salts, however, winked and said it was quite ordinary. Copenhagen was the center of interest for four

Women Unload Cargo

"To our great pleasure we had a cargo of wheat for Riga, Latvia, formerly a part of Russia and now an independent republic. Riga seemed to be undergoing a dreadful depression and countless pitiful incidents were seen. Women clad in course-spun clothing and awkward shoes acted as stevedores—a job that would tire any man. It took four days for the women to unload the grain and we started on our return journey, picking up a cargo of wood pulp for a Philadelphia paper corporation. Our route included Helsingfors, Raumo and Kotka, Finland, as well as two Swedish ports.

"On November 6, at 9 a. m. the Casper went full speed onto a submerged rock off the Aland Island, Finland. A general helter-skelter of seamen followed—and O'Brien and I contributed to the helter-skelter phase. Fortunately the rock held the ship's bow up and the crew became quite calm and took the captain's commands as usual. It was necessary to throw cargo overboard to raise the forepart of the ship.

"The Bird City arrived and tried to pull the Casper off by means of a tow, but failed. Our captain never left the ship, nor did any of the crew when the Bird City started her task.

As the Bird City departed, I heard her captain shout through a megaphone to our captain, 'Good luck Captain, and God be with you.' A wistful smile crept over the face of our captain, and for the first time did I realize that I was working for a 100 per cent man.

"A strenuous week followed and a salvage company was called to do the task that the Bird City found impossible. A few days later divers repaired the bottom of the boat temporarily, and we limped into Copenhagen 17 days after the ship hit the rock.

"From Copenhagen the ship was transferred to Kiel, Germany, for permanent dry docking. Three weeks of this and O'Brien and I left the ship and went to Berlin, where we passed a week.

"Paris seemed to be calling, and we soon were on our way. We stopped at Cologne, on the Rhine river, and Liege, Belgium, en route. We visited Paris three times, in all, and were at Marseilles, on the Mediterranean for a week.

"Passing a month in France, we purchased tickets on the Holland-American steamer Edom for our return voyage. The ship called at four Spanish ports and departed from Vigo, Spain, for the Azores Islands. The Bermudas was our next stop. Two days later we landed at Havana, Cuba, where we stopped for a week. We took a boat to Tampa, Florida, and found ourselves quite ready to return to California.

"Our baggage was shipped and we again started the transcontinental hike. Nineteen days later we crossed the threshhold of our respective homes in Santa Ana. Like true communists, we divided our money which amounted to less than the sum we started with, and ended a more or less self-supporting trip."

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

"Sin Cargo" closes at the Yost Broadway theater tonight.

It is as thrilling and dramatic a picture as has been seen here in some time. It is a fast-moving well-acted presentation of a story that is full of interest from the first to the last reel.

Miss Mason as the heroine who had to swim home is excellent in her portrayal, while Robert Fraser as the captain and Earl Metcalfe as the weakling brother are all that can be desired in their various roles.

The five acts of vaudeville on the same bill are exceptionally good. Rubin Beckwith comes from the Orpheum with a turn, "For Your Approval;" the Do Ray Comedy revue presents five talented dancers and singers; Wilbur and Lyke have a neat and pleasant comedy tromboliene act; Percy Bronson and Louise Frawley, another Orpheum act, present themselves in "Locked Out," and the Kitchens do a comedy horizontal bar act.

WEST COAST-WALKER

Thrills?

The answer is decidedly in the affirmative if one happens to be speaking of the film, "The Love Thrill," which has its premiere today at the West Coast-Walker theater.

"The Love Thrill" is one of those delightful specimens of movielore, that races through its reels of footage with not a single dull moment to its credit, in fact the end of the escapades of Laura La Plante, as the dainty blond heroine come all too soon.

The plot around which the film was woven is not a new one by any means, but it is treated in a truly novel style, with numerous new and interesting "gags" worked in.

Tom Moore, as the "supposedly dead husband," is also responsible for an excellent performance. In the first part of the feature he appears with his face adorned with a heavy beard and moustache, looking quite different from the familiarly known screen hero.

As the villain, Bryant Washburn was almost a hero. For some reason it is impossible to associate the dark traits of the villain with Washburn's famous smile.

"The Love Thrill" is a sparkling farce and will keep the audience in high good humor.

YOST THEATER

The spectacle of millions in a manifestation of religious feeling as caught by cameras recording the Eucharistic congress at Chicago and set forth in eight reels of motion pictures at the Yost theater is at once awe-inspiring and soul-satisfying, it is said.

The motion picture enfolds everything of importance as regards the attending prelates from all parts of the world, the throngs paying honor to them and their offices and the various ceremonies. The spectator, in truth, travels from Rome with the Papal Legate, Cardinal Bonzano, through all that transpired in which he and other notables of the manifestation took part.

Only the photographic recording of events of the World war are comparable in immensity to the spectacle of the Eucharistic congress.

MURPHY'S COMEDIANS

The great mystery play "Spooks," is playing this week at Murphy's theater at Orana.

"Spooks" rivals "The Cat and the Canary," "The Bat," "The Seventh Guest," "The Thirteenth Chair," and "The Gorilla" when it comes to theme, but has them all outclassed in comedy, as it is played by Murphy's Comedians.

PUBLICITY IS PRINTED OVER ENTIRE NATION

of the Orange county highway system, Dr. Slabaugh reported. This activity is expected to be one of the major publicity efforts of the committee in the present year. The title of the tour, originally "Orange County Scentic Tour," has been amended to read "Orange County Scenic Tour, Through Nature's Prolific Wonderland," Dr. Slabaugh revealed. Fifty thousand booklets descriptive of the tour have been printed and will be distributed through the information bureaus of Los Angeles.

Very satisfactory results in the way of publicity for Orange county have been obtained through the insertion of full and half page advertising in Los Angeles and Long Beach newspapers and considerable time is being spent by the members of the committee in answering the inquiries received concerning Orange county through this medium, it was said.

Extra Activities

Extra activities of the publicity committee included the preparation of an eight foot picture done in colors on canvas of Orange county, which will be exhibited at California fairs and outdoor expositions and the offering of a handsome trophy to the winner of the Orange-Los Angeles counties boat race, which will be run between Los Angeles and Newport harbors in May.

"The work we have accomplished during the past year has been made possible by the board of supervisors and your committee cannot speak too highly of the splendid, wholehearted co-operation that we have received from them," the report said and continued:

"We have found the present chairman of the board of supervisors, William Schumacher, ex-Chairman Talbert, and the other members of the board to be fully in accord with the idea that constructive advertising is absolutely necessary for Orange county if we we are to maintain supremacy among other progressive counties of Southern California, and to these gentlemen we express our sincere appreciation."

COUNTY TOOLS ARE TAKEN FROM WAGON

Thieves looted a county trap wagon, stationed on the state highway between the Palisades and Balboa roads last night, stealing a large quantity of tools, according to a report filed with the sheriff's office by A. C. Brown, of the road department.

Among the articles reported taken were one five-gallon measure, a 15-gallon drum of oil, one five-gallon honey can, grease gun, one half-gallon oil measure, one broom, one five-gallon gasoline funnel, eight wrenches, one pair pliers, one chisel, two wrenches and a tape line.

Negro Speeder To Enter Jail

Samuel Orville Brown, negro shine boy in a Los Angeles barber shop, will be locked in the Orange county jail tonight to start serving a five-day jail sentence for speeding.

Brown admitted that he was guilty of speeding 56 miles an hour several days ago, when he was arrested by C. J. Cain, state traffic officer. "What do you think is going to happen to you?" Justice Morrison asked.

"I don't know judge, but I'se prepared," the speeder answered.

"RED" GRANGE FAILS TO AID MOVIE GIRLS

Miss Gail Webster, 22, pretty motion picture extra, who with Miss Marjorie Stewart, 20, yesterday appealed to Harold "Red" Grange for financial assistance in getting out of the Huntington Beach jail, is dancing alone in jail today.

The S. O. S. call sent to the famous red head failed to bring any response from him in person. Late yesterday afternoon a man whose name cannot be learned, appeared at Huntington Beach and paid the $50 fine imposed upon Miss Stewart. Miss Webster was brought to the Orange county jail.

The two girls were arrested at 3 a. m. yesterday morning in company with Harry Anderson, of 1312 Magnolia avenue, Huntington Beach. Anderson was assessed $100 when he pleaded guilty to a charge of being intoxicated. The two girls were sentenced to pay fines of $50 each or spend 50 days each in jail on similar charges.

After talking to Grange over the telephone the girls were reported by Huntington Beach officers to be in exuberant spirits. They are alleged to have sang and danced in jail.

Reports from Los Angeles today were to the effect that "Red" "barely knew the girls" and viewed their phone call as a joke.

CHURCH FILM TO BE RUN AT S. A. THEATER

The Eucharistic congress pictures which will be shown this evening, 7-9 o'clock, at Yost's Spurgeon St. theater, with full orchestral accompaniment, make a colorful pageant for two hours of impressive and historical entertainment. Probably in the lifetimes of those who will witness it, there will never be opportunity to see again such a spectacle in this country, which, for the first time entertained the congress, which met for the twenty-eighth time, Santa Ana Catholics say.

Los Angeles had the honor of presenting the Fox film for its premiere, and Santa Ana is the second city to show it. The people of the south part of Orange county have been invited to come to Yost's Spurgeon Street theater to see the picture tonight, and nuns and school children were among the large audience which filled the theater this afternoon.

The Eucharistic congress has been called the $50,000,00 convention by the merchants of the Windy City. It is estimated that each of the two millions of people who journeyed there spent at least $10 per day, no reckoning having been taken of railroad fare. Under this heading the estimate is $7,000,000 in ocean transportation, $356,000 in inland water travel, and $4,000,000 in railroad fares, and on the great day at Mundelein, Ill., when the greatest procession of the Blessed Sacrament took place, $1,500,000 was spent to transport the great crowds from Chicago and return.

With the possible exception of the armistice of the great World war, no single event has received more widespread notice in the columns of the daily press than the congress, it is reported.

One enterprising news clipping agency in Chicago has assembled almost 60,000 editorial comments on the great religious manifestation, another 15,000 clippings from the European press, while still another has 12,000 editorials from the columns of religious papers.

RAIL BOOKLET SHOWS PACIFIC COAST SCENERY

One of the finest collections of California scenery it is possible to reproduce photographically on heavy art paper, has just been issued by the Southern Pacific lines. The book, bound in brilliantly colored covers, painted by Maurice Logan, contains 74 photographs of California's principal spots of scenic, romantic and historic interest.

In its foreword, the Southern Pacific says:

"This book is for remembrance. When your trip to California is over, the pictures between these covers of California's hills and valleys, beaches and playgrounds will bring back the pleasant days you passed on the Pacific slope.

Of the cover, painted by Maurice Logan, it is said:

"In this picture are suggested some of the elements of California's charm. There are hills and valleys in it with luxurious greens and rich browns; there are the rugged outline of the ocean shore, the blue water of the Pacific with its fringe of foamy surf dancing in the sunlight. And in the picture, as in every part of California, may be seen happy people enjoying life."

Copies of the book may be obtained through the Southern Pacific offices.

BISHOP CLAIMS HE SENT OUT FIRST ORANGES

How a bit of advertising on the part of Charles Hewitt, fruit dealer of Des Moines, Iowa, in 1883, was responsible for thefi rst carload of oranges from Santa Ana being shipped east was being told of today by A. D. Bishop, pioneer resident of Orange county, who desires to correct a news story published recently, to the effect that the first oranges and lemons were shipped in 1884 by Smith and Allen, then local fruit packers.

According to Bishop, a car was mailed to every patron of the Des Moines merchant, upon the arrival of each new carload of oranges from Europe, and one of these cards was sent to him in Santa Ana His professional pride was touched and the shipment of locally grown fruit resulted fully a year earlier than was credited in the former article.

Shipped In Cattle Car

The task of packing the fruit and transporting it from his ranch on Fairhaven avenue to the Southern Pacific freight switch in Santa Ana, required considerable work, according to Bishop. Because there were no fruit cars, the oranges were shipped in a cattle car. In order that they should arrive at their destination in edible condition, especial precautions had to be taken in the packing of them so that air could circulate, but so that the fruit be held firmly in place during the journey.

The fruit had to be washed in special cleaning solution to clean the black scale from them. Three or four washers were kept busy by two packers and a small force of pickers. It required an entire week to pack the 300 boxes which constituted one carload.

The fruit was sold so as to return to Bishop and his partner, Malcom "Mac" Peters, $1.85 per box. That this return might have been considerably more if he hadn't stated specifically to the Des Moines merchant that $1.85 would be considered a reasonable return, is believed by Bishop.

Immediately upon receipt of the first carload of California oranges the Des Moines merchant wired for another carload. This was packed and shipped under similar conditions.

Bishop knew of the shipment of the oranges and lemons the next year but he objects to the assertion that "nearly 1000 boxes of fruit" was stored in the warehouse of the merchant said to have rec\ved them. The cattle cars, used \ to transport the fruit, did not hold more than 300 boxes, according to Bishop.

The boxes used in the first few shipments were taken from the grape vineyards, which covered the greatest portion of cultivated land in this section at that time. They contained approximately the same quantity of fruit as is contained in the present day box, he said.

Bishop, who was born in 1851, is the son of Umphrey Hine Bishop, credited with being the first to patent a storage house device and to construct one in Chicago.

Southern California Gardens

By RUSSELL S. ADKINSON

Late Flowering Plants

There is hardly a flower lover that does not appreciate the late flowering plants of the garden. Those that still offer their beauty when the earlier flowering ones, enjoyed so much in their prime, begin to pass the useful stage. It is time now that we at last plan for these late flowers. Some are ready for the garden, while others soon will be.

Asters

One of the most popular late flowering plants now ready to start, either from seeds or plants, is the aster. Bearing a profusion of beautiful flowers, over a long period, it meets with a great deal of approval. They may be used to advantage in beds or borders. Although quite delicate when very small, the plants become really quite hardly if given fair soil and location with a reasonable amount of care.

Pests

The mere mentioning of the name aster calls forth disapproving comment from some gardeners who have been unsuccessful in growing them. The general objection is that they are subject to aphis. That is true to some extent and although there are exceptions to all rules, the general result is good if the plants are offered full sunlight and not sprinkled. It is the shade and moisture of foliage that encourages in infestation of aphis. It may be that a weed patch near at hand is aiding in the multiplying of aphis.

Should aphis appear the use of either nico dust or Black Leaf 40 is recommended for their extermination.

Slugs and Snails

The ravages of slugs and snails are mainly at time of transplanting, if at all. It is advisable to sprinkle a little Snarol around the little plants if you are troubled at all by these pests. These and aphis are about the only pests you may have in aster culture and they may not appear.

The sunny exposure, which an aster plant appreciates, will do a lot to relieve you of them.

Zinnias

Along with the aster is planted the Zinnia. Perhaps no late flowering plant produces such an abundance or such a profusion of color as the zinnia. The popularity of asters and zinnias goes hand in hand. Within the nursery circles the name of one is seldom used without the other. They are hardier than the aster when it comes to the abuse each plant will stand. While they do their best in a warm sunny place, they will do fairly well in partial shade. Like the aster, you may use them in beds or borders. They cannot, however, be used in a low border.

The only difference in their culture is at time of planting when they are occasionally attacked by snails and slugs. For this, treat the same as for asters.

Sometimes if shaded too much, they may have a little mildew. This is treated with dry sulphur. The best remedy for mildew is to plant in a warm place and avoid sprinkling the foliage.

Other Late Plants

Dahlia tubers, and Gladioli bulbs are still being planted. Snapdragon plants, violets, petunias, Lobelia and carnations are also in order at this time.

Preparations can be made for chrysanthemums, which will be planted some time next month. A number of slips are being started at this time.

Remember, you will have to depend almost entirely upon the above for your late summer flowers.

PROPOSE THREE COUNTIES JOIN IN WATER PLAN

Proposal that Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties join in a plan for co-operative plan for water conservation and flood control was made at a meeting of 35 persons at Fontana this week, according to word from the San Bernardino city today.

Acting on the authorization of those present at the meeting, Glenn D. Smith, president of the San Antonio Water company, will call a meeting soon of representatives of the three counties. At this meeting a definite plan for promoting the project will be outlined, it was announced.

As yet the plans for the co-operative program have taken no definite form. The general idea, however, is for the three boards of supervisors to appropriate fixed amounts for expenditure in the various agricultural districts of their respective counties. The amount probably would be based on the annual tax paid by the various districts, although this was discussed briefly yesterday.

This plan was originally suggested by Mr. Smith for San Bernardino county alone, and it was this that the representatives were prepared to consider yesterday. When the three-county plan was advanced, however, discussion of the independent program was dropped.

Whether the consent of the three boards of supervisors is sufficient to permit launching the program was not learned. It is possible, it was pointed out at the meeting that authorization by the legislature would be necessary. These and other matters will be discussed at the meeting of representatives from San Bernardino, Orange and Riverside counties.

DIVA ENDORSES SHREDDED WHEAT

When Mary Garden goes on tour with the Chicago Civic Opera Company, according to The Baltimore Post, she maintains a rigorous diet, eating virtually nothing but Shredded Wheat and milk. It is to this strict diet that she attributes her fitness and robust health.

Shredded Wheat at every meal, and milk—this is her diet on the tour, according to the Baltimore paper. She drinks two or three quarts of milk a day when she is especially hungry; and she has Shredded Wheat for every meal. At breakfast she also has half a grapefruit. She practically lives on Shredded Wheat, milk and grapefruit.

Before the tour begins, during the opera season in Chicago, Miss Garden occasionally adds a little white meat of chicken to her menu, a few vegetables, and for dessert sometimes a very little bread pudding. Never any meat. Shredded Wheat and milk will still constitute the major portion of her meals.

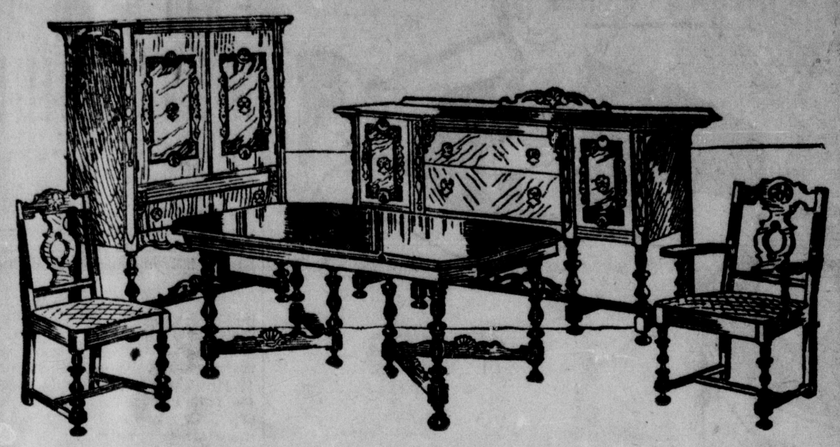

Realizing the great interest of women throughout the country in the methods Miss Garden has used to achieve perfect health, T. A. De Weese, Vice-President of the Shredded Wheat Company, wrote to her asking permission to broadcast her story. In reply she said, "Certainly you can use the few words I said about Shredded Wheat. After a big performance I go home, take my two Shredded Wheats and a bottle of milk and go to bed; sleep nine hours and wake up in the morning feeling 16!"

Which seems to prove that if you want to sing, or become an operatic star, you will have to eat Shredded Wheat.

ABANDON PLANS FOR PLAY-DAY OF P.-T. A. FOLK

Final decision to abandon a project for an all-day Orange county entertainment and sightseeing trip for out-of-state delegates and visitors to the national convention of the Parent-Teacher associations, who are expected to come to Los Angeles following the meet in Oakland next May, was taken yesterday afternoon following a lengthy conference between Mrs. J. V. Kelsey, president of the fourth (Orange county) district of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, and Mrs. Fay R. Spangler, chairman of a special committee on the play-day arrangements.

Fail to Get Co-Operation

Failure to secure necessary funds to finance the entertainment program, including a barbecue for about 1000 visitors, and the staging of a special entertainment, as well as lack of co-operation from official bodies and civic organizations, were the reasons given by the Parent-Teacher executives for abandoning the project.

When first given consideration by the Orange county Parent-Teacher officials, it was thought that the proposed play-day and sightseeing trip, participated in by more than 1000 out-of-state visitors, would result in much valuable publicity to Orange county. Stress was laid on the point that the delegates to the national convention would consist of prominent club women, leaders in their respective communities, and that not a few of them would not only be in position to travel but would also have the necessary means for acquiring homes or real estate holdings in this section of the country.

An old fashioned Spanish barbecue at the Orange county park, followed by a Spanish fiesta scene, featuring songs and dances by local talent, was among the entertainment features included in the preliminary plans. Added to this, there would have been a sightseeing caravan of gaily decorated automobiles and busses, passing through the principal communities of the county. As the caravan, coming from Los Angeles, passed the county line on Telegraph road, it would have been met by a delegation of Spanish dons and senoritas, representing Orange county.

Elaborate Plans

Included in this welcoming delegation, it was planned to have the mayors of the various communities and the Santa Ana municipal band. Preceded by a platoon of motor traffic officers, the caravan would make short stops at Fullerton, Anaheim and Orange, the plans revealed. The program would have closed with a garden party at Laguna Beach under the auspices of the Laguna Beach P.-T. A. and the art colony of that community.

To carry out this program, inquiries revealed, an appropriation of close to $1200 was needed, part to have been contributed by the county board of supervisors, and part by the different municipalities.

Both Mrs. Kelsey and Mrs. Spangler made it plain that they would not reconsider their decision unless necessary funds to finance the event were forthcoming.

Father Fined for Slapping His Son

BRANDON, Manitoba, April 1.—Lawrence Lambert, New York concert manager, paid $20 fine here for slapping his 11-year-old son.

Guests in a hotel testified that they were attracted to the Lambert suite by screams and found Lawrence jr., crying in fear at blood that was flowing from his head.

The boy, Lambert said, refused to go to bed, whereupon his father slapped him.

The elder Lambert said the son refused in these words:

"Go chase yourself. Where's the fire?

MATCH-MAKERS INTERESTED AS GIRL MATURES

THE HAGUE, April 1.—Royal matchmakers, attention!

Princess Juliana will be 18 years old on April 30. She will then have a castle of her own, and her income from the government will be considerably augmented.

Some day she will probably be queen of 60,000,000 people. Her fortune coming from the House of Orange-Nassau will be one of the greatest in Europe.

It would have been easy to provide a husband for Juliana if the great war had not come about. The minister for foreign affairs would have called the roll of German princes and Juliana would have selected the one most to her liking just as her mother did. But times have changed.

German principalities, duchies and kingdoms have been swept away, and monarchies which still exist do not care much for the titles of those which have been blended into the German republic.

Juliana hardly would marry Olaf, the crown prince of Norway, as they are both in direct line for a throne. The same is true of Juliana and the Prince of Wales.

Juliana's husband must be a prince who is willing to move to Holland and remain here permanently in the same inconspicuous position Prince Hendrik occupies. And being a prince consort is not an especially desirable job.

Prince Henry and Prince George, the younger sons of King George of England, would be eligible matches for Princess Juliana. Also Prince Charles, the second son of King Albert of Belgium. But as the Belgian house is Catholic, a marriage with the Protestant House of Orange-Nassau is regarded as unlikely.

Prince Knud, second son of King Christian of Denmark, who is now 26 years old, is regarded as a likely suitor for Juliana's hand. The Danish house is not nearly as rich as the House of Orange-Nassau.

Prince Sigvard, second son of the crown prince of Sweden, who will be 20 years old next June, is another youngster in favor. Prince Lennart, the 18-year-old son of Prince Wilhelm of Sweden, second son of the king of Sweden, is another prospect.

Juliana will be a co-ed at Leyden university next autumn. The queen has decided it is best for her daughter to have come special courses there in economics, politics and history to prepare her for the work of administering the great empire in the East Indies and Europe, which will some day come under her control.

LOS ALAMITOS

LOS ALAMITOS, April 1.—A box supper in connection with the regular meeting of the Los Alamitos Chamber of Commerce will be held at 6 o'clock on Wednesday in the hall of the administration building. All are invited.

The regular meeting of the Women's Improvement club will be held on April 6, with Mrs. J. B. Rose, Mrs. Earl Barker and Mrs. George Tinkham as hostesses.

Mrs. E. Amspoker attended the funeral of her grandmother, Mrs. Minnie Herbert, in Long Beach on Tuesday.

Mrs. Mix, of Green street, is entertaining her sister, Mrs. P. Shook of Portland, Ore.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Community church met on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. J. Jones, with 12 members in attendance. A discussion of a bazaar to be held in April was the topic of the afternoon.

WALL ST. JOURNAL

NEW YORK, April 1.—Describing the market, the Wall Street Journal financial review today said:

Price movements on the stock exchange today were extremely irregular. Further bad breaks took place in American Woolen pfd. and in special groups like the baking shares, packing stocks and oils. Despite the weakness of these issues, Steel common climbed to the highest price of its history, and sharp advances took place in other high priced industrials, including General Motors, Allied Chemical, National Lead, Commercial Solvents B and Continental Isurance, but the factor which strengthened confidence regarding the fundamental soundness more than anything else was the impressive behavior of the rails in face of the interstate commerce commission's decision on the O'Fallon case.

The market closed irregular.

BILL TO PROHIBIT GRUNION HUNTING IN CALIFORNIA IS INTRODUCED IN LEGISLATURE

The grunion has been considerably picked on, snubbed and ignored these last few years. He's been a sort of nobody—no family nor anything like that, it was thought. Apparently nothing in the way of a future for him. But now—

He's discovered. He's been picked up by the people who count.

Of course, he'd been picked up before, in a way, but this time a distinguished member of the legislature has noticed him. And it has been found that grunion really has a family crest after all. He wouldn't be recognized as a member of the Leuresthes Tenuis family, but that's him, nevertheless, fins and all.

Special Law For Him

Moreover, his belated recognition includes the making of a special law, all for him. At least Assemblyman T. R. Finley, Santa Barbara attorney, who has noticed Leuresthes Tenuis, is hoping that the legislature will enact the law he has proposed, and will thus provide the grunion with the background and prestige of legal protection.

So, if Finley's measure is enact-

Angels, Suds Only P. C. L. Teams Busy

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—Only one Pacific Coast league game was in prospect today. Clear weather prevailed at Los Angeles for the Angel-Seattle game. Heavy rains fell last night at San Francisco, Oakland and Sacramento, where the other games were slated. Diamonds at those cities were mud-covered and rain throughout the day was forecast.

TALENTED TEXAN

"TEX" OLIVER

Here's Gerald Oliver, the talented Texan, who coached the Santa Ana high school track squad to victories in two of the biggest prep school meets of the year——the Southern Counties and the Chaffey invitationals. Oliver is shown with one of the many trophies the local delegation has annexed this season.

SANTA ANA TRACK SQUAD TO GO AGAINST ALHAMBRANS IN LEAGUE CONTEST TOMORROW

Swinging into the last half of its ambitious schedule, the Santa Ana high school track squad will make its second trip of the week tomorrow morning, journeying to Alhambra for a dual meet with the Moors, this beginning at 10:30 o'clock. The competition will be the last for both teams before the annual Coast Preparatory league gathering at Glendaye April 9.

Poly and the Moors are generally regarded as being of even strength so a close and interesting set-to is expected.

Coach "Tex" Oliver will take every available athlete along with him and his men will be under strict orders to "bear down" in view of the proximity of the important league meet.

M. Moffatt and Stephenson, the team's two cripples, are both scheduled to compete but Oliver probably will limit them to one event, Moffatt the high jump and Stephenson the 220.

Alhambra's strength rests chiefly in the sprints and hurdles although Taylor is one of the best half-milers in the circuit and Parslow one of the leading broad jumpers. Shields and the Parslow brothers must be recognized as real rivals for Captain Bear, the Poly sprinting ace, and the latter may have to "bend his back" to head them to the wire.

Bennett, Alhambra's premier miler, has never done better than 4:49 so Harold Breeding, Santa Ana's star, is conceded first place with only the necessity of running the four laps to get his points.

Taylor, in addition to his 880-running ability, is also one of the four best discus chuckers in the league, but he may get some unexpected opposition from James Musick, Santa Ana, if the latter gets away one of the throws that he cut loose with in practice yesterday. Musick hurled the brass 118 feet by actual measurement. Such a throw a week from tomorrow would give Santa Ana a chance to take first place in the all-league meet, an ambition that is cherished by every member of the Oliver crew.

HARRIS ENTERS 17 COLLEGIANS IN CONFERENCE

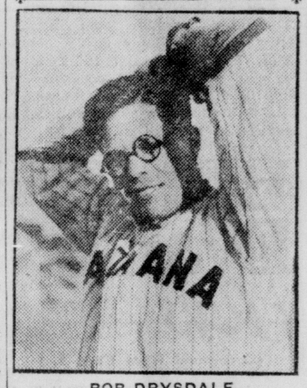

Seventeen trackmen of the Santa Ana junior college will be among the throng of athletes competing in the annual Southern California junior college track classic at Riverside tomorrow, by Coach Graham, track mentor, announced today.

Entries are to be made in every event except the high hurdles and the high jump, Harris said. The Santa Ana athletes have a chance to win second place in the conference, it is held, and the squad will enter the meet prepared to battle it out with Riverside for second ranking.

Preliminaries in the sprints will be held tomorrow morning, so part of the local team will leave early. The finals will be run off in the afternoon.

POLY CO-EDNAS CINCH COUNTY HOCKEY CROWN

Although skies were cloudy and rain was drizzling, the enthusiasm of the Santa Ana high school hockey girls was in no wise dampened by the weather when they defeated the Orange high school team, 5 to 0, in the last game of the inter-school series among Orange county schools and, by so doing, clinched titular honors.

The victory gave the Poly co-ed athletes a perfect string of victories for the season.

Scores for the series of inter-school games show that Santa Ana score 21 goals as against 2 made by their opponets. The most decisive triumph was over Huntington Beach and the hardest fought game was with Fullerton. Results of the season's matches follow:

Santa Ana.	10 Huntington B'ch.
Santa Ana.	3 Anaheim
Santa Ana.	3 Fullerton
Santa Ana.	5 Orange

Miss Alverda West, coach of the girls' team, used her regulars in the Orange game. Without much difficulty, the Santa Ana girls piled up the score, at least one goal being made in each quarter. Miss Rowena Cone, playing the right inside position, drove two of the scores through the Orange goals. The lineup:

Santa Ana (5)		(0) Orange
Huston	RW	Frerking
Cone (2)	RI	Gill

FULLERTON AND H. B. FAVORED TO LEAD FIELD

Preliminaries in Running Events Are Run Off on Cinderpath at Orange

With Fullerton and Huntington Beach as ranking favorites in the dope books, the annual Orange county high school track and field meet, boasting an entry list of but a few less than 200 athletes, will be run off on the Orange cinderpath tomorrow afternono, beginning at 2 o'clock.

Anaheim, Brea, Fullerton, Garden Brove, Huntington Beach, Orange, San Juan Capistrano and Tustin all have enrolled the cream of their Class A and Class C runners, jumpers, vaulters and weight throwers and one of the most successful classics in the annals of the sport is anticipated.

Preliminaries in the Class A and Class C dashes and hurdles were held yesterday at Orange. Fullerton and Huntington Beach both placed heavily although Anaheim and Orange showed surprising strength in some instances and may be the dark horses that will ruin the best laid plans of certain schools.

Clear weather indicated that the track will be in good condition for the finals. The oval was soggy and slow yesterday but was drying out rapidly this afternoon.

SANTA ANA TO BATTLE HARES AT POLY FIELD

The day for eloquent threats and gritting teeth is here.

Two enemies ancient but not antiquated, are due for another head-on collision at Poly field here tomorrow in the first Coast Preparatory league baseball game of the 1927 series.

..Coach Bill Foote's Santa Anans and Coach Orlan Landreth's Long Beach Jackrabbits are the headliners. The battle lines are drawn, the generals have planned their strategems, and the time honored "play ball" will be heard in a few hours—unless it rains some more.

Long Beach has held a club over Poly athletic teams all year. Tomorrow, Coach Foote hopes to wreak vengeance on the school that drubbed Santa Ana in football, track and basketball and get away to a running start on this seven-game series.

Drysdale to Pitch

Bob Drysdale, a junior with a ministerial face and a pair of spectacles, as well as a stock of fancy curves, has drawn the Santa Ana slinging assignment. He has outshown a horde of ambitious youngsters in a set of pre-season tests and the reward for this work is his selection as starting deceiver in the team's first crucial contest.

Captain Melvin Beatty will don the receiving bib and tucker. The Poly inner guard will be comprised of Youel, at first base, Flanders or Spencer at second, Koral on third and Warren Sullivan at short. In the pastures will be Dugger or R. Sullivan in left, Schuchardt in center and either Dungan or Blakeney in right.

If Drysdale falters before the finish, his place will be taken by Walter Jordan an elongated right hander, or Jack Blakeney, a southpaw, who achieved considerable fame here last fall for his prowess on the football field.

Hard To Compare Rivals

Just how Santa Ana compares with outside clubs is not known, the Foote machine having coped only with Orange county high school squads in preliminary jousts. Long Beach defeated both Huntington Beach and Anaheim by safe margins but its most impressive showing was made against "Shorty" Smith's Fullerton Redlegs Southern California champions in 1926. The Jackrabbits won from Fullerton by an 8 to 5 count.

Other "opening games" will be played at Glendale, Alhambra and Pasadena, the home teams facing South Pasadena, San Diego and Whittier, respectively.

Despite the drizzling rain of the last few days, Poly field is "playable" unless heavier precipitation follows between now and game-time, which is 2:30 o'clock.

EXHIBITION OF GYM WORK TO BE ANNUAL

Because of the success of the gymnasium demonstration given in Andrews gymnasium by the physical education department of Santa Ana high school, similar exhibitions will be held semi-annually, it was definitely announced today by Walter L. Scott, supervisor of physical education in Santa Ana city schools.

The boys' program was attended by approximately 600 persons, packing the bleacher space in the gymnasium last night.

The first events were formal gymnastics, under the direction of Coach Gerald Oliver, marching and military tactics being directed by the former West Pointer. Apparatus and mat work followed, supervised by Coach William Foote.

Coach Graham Harris organized the games. This feature of the program was one of the most interesting for the spectators.

As the concluding performance, a swimming exhibition was given in the school plungs. Charles Kausen won the open swimming dash across the plungs and back, a distance of 150 feet, in the time of 27 seconds.

Electrification of the Guez-Tepe-Konak line in Turkey is expected to be followed by similar improvements on the Smyrna street car lines.

BILLY EVANS Says

NEW ORLEANS, April 1.—Boston, first in baked beans and last in the American league.

For some years that famous New England city has been noted for those two things.

Once, Boston was as proud of its brand of baseball as baked beans, but those days are no more.

Manager Bill Carrigan intends to show the baseball public in general and Boston in particular that the Red Sox are in the American league for other purposes than to merely complete the circuit and play out the schedule as a matter of formality.

Boston Used To Win

Once upon a time, many, many years ago, Bill Carrigan won two successive pennants and world championships for Boston. While he is loooking forward to no such a happening, still he believes he will show the Boston public a much improved ball club when the season opens.

The personnel of the Boston club of this year will be much the same that finished in last place in 1926. It may finish there this season.

However, Carrigan is of the opinion that it is at least 15, possibly 20, games better than it proved last season. Then it won only 46 ball games and finished but one point better than .300 in the standing.

As I watched the Boston club in action for a couple of days I noted perhaps a half dozen reasons why it should be a considerably improved club. No doubt a lot of fans who saw Boston perform last year will say "that doesn't mean a thing."

Carrigan Aid To Hurlers

I am sure that Bill Carrigan, always a master handler of pitchers, a great catcher in his day, will, by devious ways and means, improve that feature of play.

"After closely observing their stuff and actually catching them, I am sure that Harriss, Ruffing and Wiltse should win more than 23 games between them," says Bill.

"Every American league player I have talked with says, 'How I hate to bat against Slim Harriss.' I can appreciate why they feel that way. Yet he won only nine games last season.

"Ruffing has as good a fast ball as I ever caught and a pretty fair curve. He ought to win 15 ball games with most any kind of a club. Last season he turned in but six victories.

Wiltse Talented Southpaw

"Wiltse a southpaw, pitching his first year in the league, came through with eight wins, which isn't bad. However, Wiltse has more stuff than several southpaws who won twice that many games.

"I regard Harriss, Ruffing and Wiltse far better pitchers than the won and lost column shows. I am hopeful they will justify my opinion of them." That ended the interview.

Better pitching is one reason why I look for the Red Sox to be a more interesting ball club.

A much improved second line of defense is another potent factor. The Sox have capable substitutes for every position. The catching is sure to be decidedly better. One who knows the value of catching can appreciate this.

MACK DEPENDS ON OLD TIMERS TO TAKE FLAG

FORT MYERS, Fla., April 1—Back in 1914 Connie Mack broke up a championship ball club, a $100,000 infield, and a reputation with the announcement that his players were too old and knew too much.

He disposed of Eddie Collins, Frank Baker, "Stuffy" McInnis and others of the "greatest ball club" and said that he would build up another championship club from the college diamonds.

It has been computed that since that time the Philadelphia Athletics have had almost a thousand young ball players and that Mack has spent a fortune looking for the inspired young ball players from the college lats.

Mack apparently has decided that wise old brains are better than fast legs of kids who can't think like old timers as may be witnessed by a line-up this season which will present Ty Cobb, Eddie Collins and Zach Wheat.

In addition to those old players, the Athletics will have a shortstop, Joe Boley, a 28-year-old child from Baltimore, who cost the Athletics a reputed sum of about $60,000. Boley is not the oldest man on the squad and he is not the youngest, as the average age of the club rates about 26 years.

The A's have more good ball players than old Connie Mack knows what to do with. He has a pair of infilders, a pair of outfielders, three or four fine catchers and more than a dozen pitchers.

The old gamble that the old veteran manager is making is at first base, but he insists that it is not a gamble. Dudley Branom, a 27-year-old rookie from Kansas City with a fancy price behind him, has been elected by Mack to play an important position that has been the one big weakness of the Athletics for years and Mack says that he will do.

anything go wrong with Phil Todt at first, Jack Rotrock can fill in most capably. Wanninger is a capable understudy for Rigney at short, while Rogell can step in at second and take Regan's place in a pinch. Rolling, a mighty likely looking chap from Mobile, is battling with Fred Haney for third.

With two ball hawks like Jacobson and Flagstead in the outfield, there need be no worry on that score.

Boston isn't going to win any pennants nor trouble the first division, it may even finish last again, but, like Carrigan, I think it will win 20 more ball games than last year.

Handicap for Umpire

What's in a name?

Several weeks ago I pointed out that as far as a baseball umpire was concerned, it meant considerable.

I made mention of the fact that one of the umpires I once broke in as an American leaguer was named Colliflower. It is obvious that an umpire with a vegetable handle is immediately under a great handicap.

Now cauliflower au gratin is a most appetizing dish, but when Colliflower, the umpire, made a decision that failed to please the fans, he was greeted thusly:

"Colliflower not au gratin but how rotten."

Then, I told how later this umpire shifted his name to James and was at once called Jesse and reminded that the horse alone was missing to complete the picture.

I also called attention to the fact that my very good friend and capable umpire, Tom Crook, was to work in the Pacific Coast league and that he no doubt would often be reminded of his name.

Claims His Name Worst

The above is merely to serve as an introduction to a letter recently received from a brother umpire of other days, Munce Pigue, a most unusual front and rear handle. Here it is:

"I read your article on what is in a name, relative to umpires, with a great deal of interest.

"No doubt Colliflower paid the penalty of his vegetable handle and I am sure Tom Crook will often have his name taken in vain by the hard-hearted fans but I I am positive no umpire ever had a tougher time than I did during the seasons of 1924-25."

At this point in the letter I became curious and glanced to the bottom of the page to get the connection and noted the very rare name of Pigue.

Greeted With Grunts

"I admit Colliflower is a tough name for an umpire while Crook is just as bad, but my handle has both of 'em beat.

"My name is Pigue, pronounced as if the last two letters, "u" and "e" were not there. In other words just plain PIG.

"My appearance on the field during my connection with the Southern league was a signal for an outburst of hog calling and snorts that would have put the experts from Wisconsin to shame.

"I heard more grunts in two years from the fans than a whole herd of razorbacks could make.

"My name was too much of a handicap for my ability. However they didn't run me out. I held on until the 'pres' handed me a pink slip.

"I may change my name sometime and get back into the game, but it won't be James. I like Irish names and may pick on one like Dinneen, Moriarty, Moran, O'Day or Connolly. Those fellows have been quite successful in the umpiring game."

You'd Be SURPRISED!

BY BILLY EVANS

Unquestionably the role of pinch-hitter is one of the toughest in baseball.

Yet for two seasons, Ernie Johnson kept his job with the New York Yankees, while they were winning pennants, largely by his ability to step up to the plate and come through in a pinch.

During the season of 1924, as I recall it, Ernie Johnson made a record as a pinch-hitter that is without parallel as far as I know.

That season, in 15 times at bat as pinch-hitter, Johnson came through with 12 safe wallops, among them being doubles, triples and home runs.

The following year, although he didn't perform quite as efficiently, he came through with four hits in his first 10 trips and then went into a slump.

So that in 25 consecutive appearances as pinch-hitter, running over one full season and part of another, Johnson made 16 hits in 25 times at bat.

While Johnson was at the height of his run as a pinch-hitter, I asked him if he had any pet theories that he followed. Johnson always had a good eye and was hard to pitch to.

"None," he replied, "other than that I try to do what the manager wants me to, make a hit in the pinch. Therefore, any time I get the pitcher in the hole, I always pick on the cripple. Sent up to pinch-hit, there is no sense in the batter waiting out the pitcher. Once he has him in the hole, he should always take a healthy swing at the cripple."

TROJAN SQUAD OFF FOR CARD MEET TONIGHT

LOS ANGELES, April 1—Thirty-two University of Southern California athletes will trek northward tonight for Palo Alto where they engage the Stanford Cardinals tomorrow in what looms as the most bitterly contested dual meet of the season.

Coach Dean Cromwell of U. S. C. is taking every man he believes capable of garnering a point, in the effort to overcome the dopesters who figure Stanford to finish on the long end of the score sheet.

The three casuals on the Trojan squad are Cliff Reynolds, Jack Williams and Johnny Parsons. However, Reynolds will work in the high hurdles, allowing "Tex" Wilson to take his place in the broad jump. Despite a bad ankle Williams appears good for a third place in the pole vault. Parsons, handicapped by a cold, will step his stride in the furlong.

100-yard dash—Borah, House, Smith; 220-yard dash — Borah, House, Parsons; 440-dash—Sauers, McDaniels, Wallace; 880-yard run—Gloege, Lovejoy, Adams; mile run—Unruh, Schurr, Hussey; two mile run—Hellman, Smith,Hunt.

TEMPLETON ORDERS MEN TO OPEN UP

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., April 1—Coach "Dink" Templeton of the Stanford track team told his athletes to open up with all they had in the 100,220, 440, shot put and high jump yesterday and as a result, according to Templeton's reckoning the Cardinals will have a 24 to 21 lead at the end of those events in the Trojan-Cardinal track meet tomorrow.

Grunion Hunting Would Be Halted By New Measure

ed into law, there will be a closed season on grunion. Leuresthes Tenuis may then hang out the "not at home" sign at certain seasons, and deny himself to callers like other folks of importance. If one wants to associate with Leuresthes Tenuis then, it must be done before April 1 or after June 30 of each year.

Orange County Included

Finley's measure would apply to the southern counties of the state, as it covers fish and game districts No. 4 and No. 19. District No. 4 includes Orange county, among other southern counties. District No. 19 includes the Southern California coast as far northward as the northern boundary of Santa Barbara county. The measure, known as Assembly bill No. 601 reads as follows:

Sec. 1—A new section is hereby added to the penal code, to be numbered 628K and to read as follows:

628K—Every person who, between April 1 and June 30, both dates inclusive, of any year, takes, catches, kills or has in possession in fish and game districts four or nineteen any grunion (Leuresthes Tenius) is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Penalties Are Cited

Every person violating any of the provisions of this section upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than $25 nor more than $500, or by imprisonment in the county jail of the county in which the conviction is had, not less than ten days nor more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment; and all fines and forfeitures imposed or collected for any violation of the provisions of this section must be paid into the state treasury to the credit of the fish and game preservation fund.

GARDEN GROVE WINS FROM POLY SECONDS

Superior hitting by the Garden Grove high school second team resulted in the defeat of the Santa Ana reserves by a score of 7 to 4 yesterday at Garden Grove when the first games in the Orange County Second Team league schedule was played.

Wendell Vance was on the mound for Santa Ana.

Don Smith was credited with the only hit made by a Santa Ana player. However, in the last inning a chance to rally was given Santa Ana. The bases were loaded with one out. Wayne Vance hit a pop fly to the infield and Don Smith was caught trying to score at home base. That effectively ended Santa Ana's chance to win the game.

Dr. F. W. Slabaugh Tells of Advertising Campaigns in Southland Daily Papers

More than 2,000,000 people in the eastern and middlewestern sections of the United States were acquainted with Orange county through publicity printed in daily and weekly newspapers by delegates to the National Editorial association convention, who wereguests of Orange county in June of last year, according to the report of the publicity committee of the Orange County Associated Chambers of Commerce, made by Dr. F. W. Slabaugh, chairman, to the annual meeting held in Santa Ana.

"It has been conservatively estimated that 32,000 inches of copy descriptive of the National Editorial association delegates' stay in Southern California was printed by visiting editors in their eastern and middle-western newspapers, so that more than 2,000,000 of their home people read glowing accounts of the Southland and Orange county from the pen of their local editors," the report said.

Approximately 100 inquiries every day concerning Orange county were answered by the members of the committee. These inquiries, Slabaugh said, were largely the result of the Southern California publicity inserted by the All-Year club. Inquiries were received from every state in the Union and from many foreign countries.

Empire State Leads

Most inquiries came from New York. Other states in the first 10 from which requests for information were received rank in the following order, the report showed: Pennsylvania, Ohio, Texas, Illinois, Wisconsin, Kansas, Minnesota, Iowa and Missouri. The committee mailed out approximately 25,000 Orange county booklets and used approximately 50,000 four-page rotogravure letterheads.

Arrangements have been made for the resumption of the Orange county tours, utilizing motor busses running out of Los Angeles, which tours were abandoned temporarily when floods washed away portions

H. S. PRINTING PLANT PRAISED BY EDUCATORS

Letters of commendation for the work being accomplished in the print shop at the Santa Ana polytechnic high school, as outlined in the little booklet, "Printing," issued by T. E. Williams, print shop instructor, have been received from many sections of the United States.

Williams has a packet of 12 letters from as far east as New York City, complimenting the results gained at the Santa Ana high school.

According to information in the pamphlet of the United Typothetae of America, Chicago, Ill., in which a survey of 70 printing schools in 20 states was made, the Santa Ana high school print shop is better equipped than the majority of print shops. The majority have equipment valued from $3000 to $5000, while the Santa Ana high school shop is supplied with $17,000 of equipment.

Among the collection of letters, one from the International Typographical union is prized highest by Williams.

"You are nicely located, splendidly equipped and so organized as to do the fine job of instruction work which I am sure you are doing," the letter states.

Other letters received are from the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical college; Vocational and Technical school, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Hirsch Trade school, New York city; Mount Clemens high school, Mich.; University fo California; Frank Wiggins trade school, Mergenthaler Linotype company; Stout Institute, Mennomonie, Wis.; Vocational Educational school, Milwaukee, Wis.; International T pographical union, Indianapolis, Ind.; Lathrop trade school, Kansas City, Mo.; Industrial Educational Magazine, Chicago, Ill.

PASTOR SPEAKS ON SOUTHLAND TO LIONS CLUB

California is building a civilization that will make the state one of the greatest units in the United States, and which will attract to it hundreds of thousands of people from all over the nation, in the opinion of the Rev. Charles E. McKinley, of Galesburg, Ill., and former president of Knox College, at Galesburg.

The minister is vacationing in California and was here yesterday as a speaker at the Lions club, President C. S. Crokshank and the speaker being college mates, the two having graduated at the same time from Grinnell college. Dr. McKinley was the speaker last night at special lenten services held at the Congregational church.

Stating that he was making his first visit to the Golden state, the visitor said he had been profoundly impressed with the hospitality he had found in Southern California and in a joking way, he referred to recent floods as probably having been only an incident in the ambition of California to make him feel at home.

"The thing in California I get most out of is not the scenery, nor the oranges, although the sight of golden fruit on the trees does make a wonderful impression; I am not impressed by the fruits, the nuts, the oil or the natural resources—the thing I get most out of is the civilization which is being built here," said the visiting divine.

He commented on the transformation of a desert into the wonderful California of today and declared that one of the things that had gripped him most was the Mission Play at San Gabriel.

"The heroism of the man who determined that California should be supreme in civilization and initiated the work of civilizing the savages who roamed the lands here cannot fail to impress one who witnesses the play," commented the speaker, in making reference to the Rev. Father Junipero Serra and his influence on the early life of this state.

He pointed to the fine school buildings and the education program of the state as outstanding features aiding in the advancing civilization here, and discussed points on technical training for boys and girls.

J. A. Henderson was program chairman. Two vocal numbers by Leon Eckles supplied the special musical program.

NEW RULES FOR S. A. GARBAGE SERVICE MADE

Clyde L. Jenken, street superintendent, has issued new instructions to residents of Santa Ana regarding the disposal of trash and garbage.

According to the instructions, everyone in the residential districts must have his garbage cans set out by 8 o'clock o.. the morning scheduled for garbage collection in that neighborhood. In the business section trash and garbage is to be set out by 11 p. m.

Use Garbage For Hog Feed

It was started that all garbage must be placed in approved garbage containers, as all leaky containers will be reported to the health officer for condemnation. The cooperation of everyone was asked in seeing that nothing was placed in the garbage which would damage it as hog feed, for which purpose the city sells it.

Garbage collection will take place as follows:

Monday and Thursday—all places south of Fourth street and west of Main street. Tuesday and Friday—all places north of Fourth street and west of Main street; and east of Main street and north of Washington avenue. Wednesday and Saturday—all places east of Main street and south of Washington avenue.

All trash or rubbish exceeding one cubic yard requires a 24-hour notice, as a special truck will be needed to haul it away. Such notices must be telephoned to number 1136.

Put Trash in Boxes

All trash must be placed in boxes or other receptables the total of which will not weight more than 75 pounds in order that one man may lift it. It was requested that all combustible trash be separated from the non-combustible trash in order that it may be collected separately.

Trash collection will take place as follows: Tuesday—south of Fourth street and west of Main street. Thursday—north of Fourth street and west of Main street; east of Main street and north of Washington avenue. Saturday—East of Main street and south of Washington avenue.

HOLD CONTEST TO DETERMINE BEST STUDENT

Rivalry has become close between Harold Breeding and Wyley Carlyle trackmen at the Santa Ana polytechnic high school, in the contest now at its height, to choose the best all around student, considering scholarship, activities and athletics.

Among the 12 candidates, Breeding and Carlyle are far ahead, according to the tabulation of the returns made today.

Although three girls are in the contest, none were disputing the lead of the boys.

Forum Club Sponsors Contest

The contest is being held under the auspices of the Forum club to raise funds for the debate and dance to be held at the high school tomorrow night. Chester Page, of the Forum club, is in charge of all arrangements. The clubs and organizations of the school are backing the candidates.

Page said that the contest will close at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow night at the dance and the winner will be awarded the William Lorenz prize, a pen.

A voting booth has been stationed in the hall of the high school building, where the ballot returns are posted.

Standing of Contestants

Those contesting for the "all around student" distinction are Mary Bruner, backed by the Girls Glee club; Newell Vandermast, Spanish club; Wiley Carlyle, French club; John Moffatt, Latin club; Harvey Bear, Engineering club; Hubert Prior, Forum club; Roger Hearn, Boys Glee club; Harold Breeding, track team; Roy Griset, band; Eleanor Turner, Generator; Lucille Lowell, Pallett and Brush; Arthur Brooks, Honor society.

The Forum club is sponsoring the contest for the purpose of interesting students in the debate and dance. The Alhambra high school debating team will be met on the question of capital punishment. The debate will begin at 7:45 o'clock. Following the debate, the dance will be held and the Alhambra visitors will be invited to attend.

Remodeling a pirate ship's cabin into an attic, but recently converted into an artist's studio, is one of the problems facing the scenery committees in preparation for Community Players' next offering, "You and I," according to George Gerwing, director.

When "Captain Applejack" was presented last season, a special setting was constructed for the pirate ship. It was found that the low doors and ceilings were admirably suited to the demands that an attic makes upon the scenic artist. So, for the past week carpenters and painters have been at it nightly, working quietly as possible in order not to disturb the actors who were rehearsing at the same time.

Settings for "You and I" bid fair to outrival those of any previous production.

Emil Foust, who plays "Ricky," is going about with a far-off look in his eyes, while his lips form soundless syllables, at times emitting a noise somewhat resembling the lays that ancient troubadours sang to their ladies in days when knighthood was in flower. The secret being that "Ricky" must be a master of the guitar, which he strums while wooing "Ronny" in the manner of the old time cavalier. His twentieth century interpretation of the methods of old time courtship provides one of the high lights of the comedy.

It is rare that a director is so fortunate as to have an actor who, by vocation, is master of one of the other arts. As "Matey," James Duggan must paint a portrait on which he hangs all his hopes, and which forms the basis for the play. Directorial worries have been greatly minimized through the happy chance of having one in the role whose hours away from rehearsal are actually spent in wielding a brush.

"You and I" opens next Tuesday night at the Temple theater, for a four night run. Tickets are on sale at Santa Ana Book store. The play is expected to be received as one of the high marks of Players' productions. Filled with comedy, it yet has moments of deepest pathos which should form a combination as satisfying to an audience as any production ever offered by Community Players.

ANNUAL CONFERENCE MEET IS SATURDAY

LOS ANGELES, April 1.—Eight Southern conference track teams were resting today preparatory to the annual championship meet that holds the boards at the Coliseum here tomorrow.

Dope points to Occidental college victory on the basis of their first performers who have been showing consistent form of late.

Second, third and fourth places, however, will enable any team to garner championship honors, with Pomona college, victor in dual meet competition, out for plenty of those in the field events.

The two-mile run should be a breezy affair with Waite, U. C. L. A., favored over Rentchler, Pomona.

Occidental's relayists are doped to win the four-man gallop, Pomona appears supreme in the high jump, and Caltetch, with Murray Schultz annexing both the 100 and 220 dashes, should finish well up in front.

Orange Baseball Meet Is Monday

ORANGE, April 1.—Indoor baseball team representatives of the Orange City league will meet in American Legion hall Monday night, at 7:30 o'clock, to discuss final arrangements and draw up a schedule, it was learned today.

The meeting was originally scheduled for tonight. The Legion's athletic committee will meet with the group to assist in working out the problems. Claude Potter, chairman of the committee and commander of the local post, has charge of the sport here.

WORLD CRUISE PROVIDES S. A. YOUTHS WITH MANY THRILLS

Crew of 'Bird City' Remains On Board When Rock Is Hit; Courage Displayed

Thrilling experiences punctuated the travels of Don Hillman and Robert O'Brien on their nine-months tour of the United States and foreign lands, it was indicated by recital today by Hillman of some of the incidents on the long journey taken by the two Santa Ana men.

The accomplishments of the two young men are examples what pluck and determination may do when directed toward acquiring an education as to the habits, living conditions and occupation of peoples inhabiting foreign lands.

Nerve and energy was the full capital upon which the two youths started on their trip to "see the world," for Hillman today declared that when he shook the dust of Santa Ana off his feet he had only $5 in real American money. His companion had the same amount. They departed June 18, 1926.

Sign On Freighter

"After spending four days in San Pedro and keeping constant vigil for a ship that needed two 'seamen' we found the much desired in the form of a smokey old freighter bound for the Hawaiian Islands. We passed an interesting nine days on the cruise, well tempered with hard work and a hot sun. About ten days were passed on the islands, and when we departed the steamer headed for Vancouver, B. C. When we listed with the crew it was our intention to remain on board the ship and go to New York, via the Panamal Canal.

"A monotonous two weeks of loading tired us. Half in disgust and half in a lark, we decided to hike across the continent to New York and arrive there ahead of the boat. We drew our pay and made our way to Seattle. Our financial condition was satisfactory, but when we saw a chance to work fighting forest fires, we took a job and spent a week aiding the fighters as well as adding a small amount to our fund—possibly with emphasis on the latter.

"Starting from Portland, via the Columbia highway, we followed the old Oregon trail, Lincoln highway and old National trail across to Washington, D. C. After visiting the capital, we went to New York. In actual traveling time, the journey required 22 days. Kindly motorists are to be thanked!

"We worked in New York for two weeks and lived in Greenwich village in hopes of getting a touch of local color. I might add, it also was cheaper. The last of September found us on a U. S. shipping board freighter sailing for Copenhagen, Denmark. We encountered a rough sea through the Pentland Firth and across the North sea. The old salts, however, winked and said it was quite ordinary. Copenhagen was the center of interest for four

WARNING

Pain is the message conveyed to the brain by the nerves, which are the telephone wires of the body. Any undue pressure upon a nerve caused by injury or inflammation in any part will set these wires going and notify the individuals that something is wrong. These friendly warnings of nature should be heeded. When pain comes, therefore, we should not try to kill it, but to relieve it by removing the cause.

In order to remove the cause of your pain, sickness or disease, we must first find the location of that cause. This is done by taking an X-Ray picture of the bony segments of the spine where the nerves are subject to pressure as they emit through the little openings. These nerves carry all of the nerve force or functional energy received by the heart, lungs, liver, stomach, kidneys, bowels, etc., and by viewing an X-Ray you can see the condition with your own eyes. This assures you that your case is not being guessed at.

If you are sick don't say you have tried everything until you have consulted us about your case. For the next seven days the coupon below will entitle the bearer to a complete spinal examination, and without charge or obligation we will make a standard size X-Ray picture showing the exact cause of your trouble. If you are sick and wish to be well, just clip the coupon below.

SANTA ANA FRATERNAL AND PATRIOTIC ORDERS

BIRTHDAYS OF SHILOH LADIES ARE OBSERVED

Members of Shiloh circle, Ladies of the G. A. R. whose birthdays occured in March, were honored guests at the last meeting of that order, which was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Maryatt, 330 East Chestnut street.

The honored guests included Mr. and Mrs. Maryatt, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Spencer, Miss Kate Wandleken, Mrs. Kate Sutton and Mrs. Celia Harp.

The afternoon was spent in singing and in listening to various musical selections, which included piano and violin numbers.

Coming as an aftermath to the birthday meeting was the surprise party for Mr. and Mrs. Spencer, which was held in their home on Cypress avenue by members of the circle and by the Women's Relief corps, Wednesday night. The evening was spent in playing appropriate games and at a late hour refreshments were served.

Monday evening Mrs. Annie Arnold, a member of Shiloh circle, entertained in honor of Mrs. Celia Harp at Mrs. Harp's home, 1609 West Fourth street. The affair took the form of a dinner party, for which the Easter motif was used.

JUBILEE LODGE TO HOLD LADIES' NIGHT

For the last year, Jubilee lodge, No. 604, F. and A. M., has made ladies' night the feature of the meeting every second month. Tomorrow night, the ladies will be the guests of the lodge at a dinner, to be served in the banquet room at 6:30.

Following this, members of the lodge will hold a short business session, after which dancing and cards will occupy the attention of those present until midnight.

The plan of having a ladies' night at regular intervals has proved to be a popular one for the attendance has steadily increased. The meeting is for members of Jubilee lodge and their guests. Harry Garstang and John W. Cunningham are in charge of the dinner and urge that they be notified if reservations are desired.

S. A. MASONS VIEW WISTERIA BLOOMS

For the last week Santa Ana Masons have been visiting Sierra Madre in order to view the Wisteria Bloom which is famous throughout the Southland.

The Wisteria fete was opened Saturday and will continue for two more weeks. It is being held in the home of Mrs. H. T. Fennel, on whose grounds, at Scenic Point, the most beautiful vines are located.

There is no admission charge, although refreshments and novelties may be purchased on the grounds, according to an announcement sent out by the committee which is composed of members of the Masonic lodge and Eastern Star chapter, sponsors of this year's fete.

Sierra Madre is easily reached by the Foothill boulevard. Turn from the boulevard at either Baldwin or Sierra Madre avenue and the signs will point the way to the fete grounds.

Odd Fellows and Wives Are Guests

Several members of the local Independent Order of Odd Fellows and their wives were guests Tuesday night of the Anaheim lodge, when the subordinate lodge held a ladies' night, to which members and their wives from this district were invited.

Entertainment consisted of a mock initiation, put on by members of the lodge. The Rev. F. T. Porter, pastor of the First Christian church gave a brief address and performed a number of his sleight-of-hand tricks.

Those to go to Anaheim from this city included Mr. and Mrs. G. L. House, Mr. and Mrs. Ora Summerville, Mrs. C. H. Marcher and Mrs. George Peters.

National Member Drive Planned By Pythian Knights

Working under a proclamation issued by Supreme Vice Chancellor Alva M. Lumpkin, Columbia, S. C., all subordinate lodges of the Knights of Pythias throughout the supreme domain will assemble a class of candidates to be initiated between May 2 and 14. The campaign is expected by those in charge of the affair to bring more than 50,000 new members into the order. The classes will be known as "the supreme chancellor's class," as a tribute to Supreme Chancellor Richard S. Witte, of Milwaukee, Wis., and the first two weeks of May, will be designated throughout the order as "Supreme Chancellor's weeks."

According to announcement of supreme lodge officers directing the drive, an educational program will be of equal importance with the class of candidates initiated. Officers and members of the supreme lodge in all states and provinces have been listed in itineraries to visit many lodges during the two weeks and make addresses to the class and to the membership along educational lines.

All grand lodge officers and past officers, including past supreme representatives, will be routed throughout the jurisdiction for meeting with lodges in various parts of the territory.

Another interesting feature of the event is the plan to gather data of these meetings. Each lodge is requested to send a night message to Supreme Chancellor Witte at the close of the convention, giving the number of candidates, number of knights attending the meeting and other details of the conveniton. This data will be assembled and a report made to all lodges.

LODGE HOLDS APRIL FOOL'S TACKEY PARTY

Many a quaint and curious costume was to be seen Monday night at M. W. A. hall, when the Royal Neighbors held their April Fool's tackey party. There were representatives of all of the hicks in history and fiction.

Despite the fact that the party clothes, worn by officers, gave a weird air to the exemplification of the work, the various rituals were gone through as usual. Adding to the scene were the tin cans, filled with mustard blossoms, which were the only decorations.

An interesting feature of the party was the auctioning of a beautiful hand made quilt.

The program included songs and dances presented by little Carene Walters and Thelma Trickey.

Announcement was made of the district convention in San Pedro April 28. Mrs. Flora Dolbee, member of the local lodge, is president of the district and therefore will preside at the conference.

Benefit Picture To Be Presented By Sciots' Lodge

Sciots are planning to turn out in large numbers tonight to aid in the securing of new uniforms for the Lybian guard, or drill team, through attending the show at the West Coast Walker theater, which is being sponsored by the drill team. The picture to be shown will be "The Love Thrill," starring Laura La Plante and Tom Moore. Special vaudeville has been planned.

Orange Elks to Be Installed By William Jerome

Santa Ana Elks are planning to go to Orange Wednesday night, April 6, at which time the officers of this lodge, under the leadership of William Jerome, will install the new officers of the Orange organization. According to announcements from Orange, a special program has been planned.

STOMACH TROUBLES ARE DUE TO ACIDITY

Tells of Pleasant Home Treatment To Bring Swift Relief.

So-called Stomach Troubles—indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, sourness, etc., are, in probably nine cases out of ten, evidence of "too much acid in the stomach" souring the food, causing the formation of gas and starting acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes a full, oppressive burning feeling known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining. Get rid of Gas and Acidity, and you get rid of indigestion.

To stop or prevent the sourness and gas, to neutralize the stomach acids and keep the stomach sweet and free from Indigestion, a teaspoonful or four tablets of Bisurated Magnesia should be taken in a little water after eating or whenever gas, sourness, pain or acidity is felt. This quickly sweetens the stomach, neutralizes the acidity, stops the pain and is harmless and inexpensive to use.

Bisurated Magnesia, powder or tablets only, can be obtained from any drug store and its daily use keeps the stomach in fine condition, enabling it to do its work without the aid of artificial digestants.—Adv.

ANAHEIM. L. A. EASTERN STARS AT MEET HERE

Visitors from Hollenbeck and Southgate chapters, Los Angeles, and Chispa chapter, Anaheim, were present Monday night at the meeting of the Santa Ana chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, which was held in the Masonic temple.

Chapter degrees were conferred upon two candidates and a list of names was balloted upon for the April initiation.

Plans for entertainig Mrs. Sarah Wettlin, district deputy grand matron, who will make her official visit to this lodge April 11, were discussed. It was decided to precede the usual meeting with a 6 o'clock dinner.

Mrs. Jessie Overton was in charge of the decorating of the chapter rooms and had used mustard flowers, calla lilies and peach bloom to the best advantage.

Mrs. C. T. Cleland, refreshment committee chairman, used sweet peas in decorating the tables in the banquet room.

Jobless Actors Are Given Rooms

BERLIN, April 1. — A home for jobless actors and actresses has been opened in Berlin with the assistance of business men and stage stars. Luncheons will be served for a nominal charge of from 6 to 10 cents in a dining room seating 50 persons.

Two other rooms have been set aside as reading and writing parlors, and an employment office will be opened. There are as yet no dormitories. More than 700 professional actors are out of work in Berlin. The home is under the management of Frau Anna von Palen, who has been on the stage for many years.

Santa Ana, April 1.

Dear Lois: Notice the date of my letter. It means, of course, that you must be prepared to suffer all sorts of indignities and smile at having to suffer them when otherwise you would be boiling angry. And thinking of the many things which might happen to me on this day caused me to wonder at its origin. So after searching through the closet where various volumes belonging to The Register are kept, and after having a whole shelf of books fall upon my head I came to that particular encyclopedia in which was the story of the origin of April Fools' day.

It seems that such a day has been observed for many years in many different countries. In fact it is so old that there is no definite story of its beginning. For instance in France April 1 was long celebrated as the opening of the New Year. When the date was switched to January 1 it left April 1 destitute with only a mockery of its bygone festivities so the French people continued to hold mock festivals on that date.

In Germany and Scotland it has been the custom to send people on fruitless errands upon that day and in other European countries it is celebrated in similar manner.

It is interesting to note that even in India the Hindoo festival of Huli is similar to April Fool festivals, is celebrated on March 31.

But for the cloudy weather yesterday we should have come to see you but the rain scared everybody but me so naturally we didn't go as my decision in such matters has very little weight.

I suppose you have not heard about Dixie and Jack? I wrote you that he was visiting her in Florida where she and her father are spending the winter. That was the last I heard from her for ages, but lately Jean received a letter from Dixie and she said that she and Jack would be married here in the latter part of April as had been previously planned. She said that she and her father would start home April 4 and that Jack would return to New York, complete his work there and would follow them west about a week later. We shall certainly be glad to see them.

You were asking about what kind of patterns are best to use for your new pajamas. Certainly I am flattered at your asking me for advice but I am afraid that I can't answer you very well. I have no idea which is best but I think that you would have least trouble with the new Ladies' Home Journal patterns that are all on one piece of paper which just has to be pinned to the material and then each piece is cut out. I haven't tried them but I remember hearing someone discuss them and she said that they saved one having too much material or too little as it was impossible to get more or less than is exactly needed.

The other day I went up to the courthouse with one of the reporters in order to watch the proceedings in the Gaines murder trial. It was the first time that I had ever been in a courtroom and it was truly interesting.

It was the day preceeding the sentencing of the man by Judge Allen and the lawyer of the defendant was making his final plea.

I remarked to a reporter with me that I was surprised at the calmness of the defendant and was shocked to hear that all, or nearly all accused murderers look equally calm. I mentioned that Mr. Gaines didn't look as if he would kill anyone, and my escort again stated that all so-called murderers looked equally nice and kind hearted.

And again I was amazed at the number of curious people who were present at the trial. I have since been wondering why they were there. Merely out of curiosity as I was or perhaps hoping to witness something unusually thrilling.

Perhaps there was a fascination about gazing on an accused murderer or was it just morbidness. Whatever their reasons for attending the trial might have been I was rather ashamed that I had gone but even so the fascination of the thing caught me and I was as interested as anyone else.

I hope that I shall see you soon.

Love, Louise.

APPLIES FOR JOB TO CARE FOR CAT

LOS ANGELES, April 1.—The first application to care for "Kitty Boy," a black cat who fell heir to the estate of his late eccentric mistress, Elizabeth Lynch, of Long Beach, was received here yesterday from a Portland, Ore., woman.

Through the terms of the will, the Lynch home may be occupied free of rent by a responsible person who will agree to look after the welfare of the cat.

The application came in the form of a telegram from Mrs. Lillian Rowley, of Portland, during a hearing before Superior Judge Crail on a petition for letters of administration.

Public Administrator Frank Bryson declared that he had heard rumors that "Kitty Boy" had been humanely chloroformed but the fact that a cat has nine lives would be taken into account. As the whereabouts of "Kitty Boy" are vague, Judge Crail continued preliminary hearing until April 7.

Mrs. Rowley asked that she and her two tubercular children be allowed to occupy the house, but a Long Beach family, which has been caring for the cat, claims it has been chloroformed.

Scientists Form Union to Share Large Salaries

LONDON, April 1.—Scientists have watched the fat pay envelopes of plumbers and street sweepers long enough. Now several of the most noted British scientists are forming a trade union with a view to sampling some of the fat envelopes themselves.

An appeal to all directly engaged in scientific work, urging them to join the National Union of Scientific Workers, is signed by 100 distinguished scientists and professional men, including Viscount Haldane, Sir Max Muspratt, Sir Robert Hadfield, H. G. Wells, Prof. J. Huxley, Prof. A. Thompson and Sir Horace Darwin.

The appeal says:

"We consider the unions should be entirely non-political, but with definite economic and cultural aims—namely, to improve the status of men and women in science, and to aid the cause of science itself."

Would Give Book On Marriage To School Graduates

BERLIN, April 1.—A plan to present graduates of public schools in Germany with a book on marriage is being urged upon the ministry of education by a number of educators.

The book proposed is Heinrich Pestalozzi's long famous story, "Lienhard and Gertrude, a Story for the People."

False ideas on love, marriage and relationship between the sexes, it is argued, occasion much unhappiness unless the youth is properly instructed. At present each graduate is given a copy of the Weimar constitution, while Lutheran and Catholic give newlyweds a leather bound Bible.

JUGOSLAVIA HAS CHILDREN'S DAY

BELGRADE, April 1.—"Mother's day" in Jugoslavia, unlike that of America, is rather "Children's day."

There are secret preparations, as for Christmas. The mother arranges to be seated at a table so the children can crawl under it and she pretends not to notice that she is being tied, hand and foot, to her chair. When the job is finished the children dance around her and the mother finally buys her liberty with presents of candy, toys and clothes, all conveniently ready.

The origin of the custom is lost in the past. The tradition, however, is well observed and the queen acts as mother to the children of the poor, entertaining a selected group and allowing herself to be tied by a pair of well-trained youngsters provided with ribbons.

Bigger Demand For Artists In U. S. Industries

CHICAGO, April 1.—Art and business have linked arms in the United States.

Beauty is demanded today even in the most commonplace utensils of life, and the manufacturing world calls for artists where once it was content with laborers.

To meet the demand for comeliness and good taste in everything from homes to hardware, America must train commercial artists, in the view of Dean Raymond P. Ensign of the School of the Chicago Art institute.

The school he heads is the largest in the world, with 4000 students, and in a workshop backed up against Lake Michigan behind the spacious galleries of the institute, he is making a modest beginning at teaching to some of these students the application of art to such crafts as weaving, the printing trades and pottery, and jewelry making.

Then they spend two years specializing in the field they desire to pursue, coming to a study of design, interior decoration or whatever branch they follow with a solid artistic foundation.

The art institute has made a very small start in the realm of commercial art, and there are very few schools in the country which can supply even this training, Dean Ensign declares.

Will Clear Scene Of Dickens Story

BERMONDSEY, England, April 1.—Hickman's Folly, the scene of one of Dickens' grimmest stories, that of the death of Bill Sikes in "Oliver Twist," is to be cleared by the London county council. Hickman's Folly is an area close to Shad Thames at Dockhead.

Science reports that the average American boy is two inches taller than his grandfather was at the same age.

LATVIA'S ONLY PRESIDENT HAS GONE TO GRAVE

RIGA, April 1.—Janis Chakste is dead.

Janis Chakste was once a Russian farmer. He was a lawyer, too; an editor, a member of the first Duma and a doctor of philosophy. He was a renowned political economist.

And he was president of the republic of Latvia.

He was the father of his country, for he was the first—and only—President Latvia ever has had.

Latvia, the home of the Letts, has been a republic only eight years. It lies in cold storage on the Baltic sea, where it was thawed out by the Russian revolution. For 700 years before this the Lettish people had been persecuted alternately by the Germans and Russians.

Holding what became the greatest Northern Russia seaport—Riga—and the important cities of Libau, Mitau and Dvinsk, the Bolsheviki were anxious to keep what the Czars and Balt barons had enjoyed so long. They marched into the little country less than a year after the Letts had rid the soil of the Germans and declared their independence. With the aid of the Poles the Letts drove them out in 1919, at last setting up the government they had established on Nov. 18, 1918, just a week after the armistice.

Latvia was to Russia what Belgium was to France; the first bulwark against the advance of German troops. The Letts suffered as the Belgians suffered and still today one finds the provinces of Latgale in the east and Courland in the west gruesomely devastated.

But finally all that was ended. The Letts won back to their own land and own language; they were admitted to the League of Nations in 1921 and formally recognized by the United States in 1922. And at the head of their new-found land they placed Dr. Janis Chakste.

While he was largely responsible for the political independence of Latvia and while it may be said truthfully that it was due to his efforts that England and France so readily recognized the infant republic, Janis Chakste probably was felt personally even more, since the office of President is an honorary post that carries little power in Latvia.

Our Neighbors

SAN DIEGO—With less than three months of the year gone, building permits for 1927 passed the $4,000,000 mark yesterday. Considering the fact that the recent floods held up building for several weeks, this is regarded as an excellent showing and leads to the belief that the $20,000,000 record established last year will be exceeded this year. The total figure for the year to date when the building inspector's office closed was $4,051,897. The permit for the new 14-story San Diego Trust and Savings bank building will be taken out soon and will swell the building figures greatly. This building is to cost in the neighborhood of $2,000,000.

RIVERSIDE—Excavation of a deep trench for the inlet pipe to the new 12,000,000-gallon reservoir, at Iowa avenue and Linden street, has been started, making first actual construction of the new $500,000 main line of the municipal water system. H. W. Rohl, of San Francisco, is the general contractor. Work at present is in progress on the west side of Iowa avenue north of Massachusetts avenue. The huge ditch-digger of the Western Concrete Pipe co., is proceeding northward. This change in location of the start of the work was made by Edward A. Bowen, of Los Angeles, consulting engineer of the board of public utilities and supervisor of the $500,000 project.

RIVERSIDE—March building in Riverside crossed the $225,000 mark with the issuance during the day of $8700 in permits from the office of the city engineer. The 1927 total to date stands now at $605,980. Permits issued included two residences on Strong street for Genevieve Harrison at a cost of $7000. Interior alterations in the office of S. C. Evans at Eigth and Main street are planned at a cost of $300.

MONROVIA — Building permits for the first three months of 1927 total $37,090 more than the same period in 1926, according to the records of City Building Inspector Hutchinson. Permits for the first three months of the year are $182,650 against $145,560 for the corresponding period last year. Books for March were closed this morning by Hutchinson and the total was $64,750, including 14 houses, 1 business, 16 additions, 13 garages and 1 gas tank.

ONTARIO — Seventy-four students will graduate from Chaffey Junior college in June, Dean Charles J. Booth announced. This is by far the largest graduating class in the history of the institution since its organization in 1916, and nearly doubles the graduating class of last year. Tentative plans have already been laid for the commencement exercises and for the baccalaureate service. The service will be held with the high school seniors on the Chaffey auditorium on Sunday night, June 5.

BUYS DIAMOND

NEW YORK, April 1.—An enormous blue diamond taken to England from India by Warren Hastings is now the property of M. Mauboussin, Park Avenue jeweler, who bought it from the Duke of Westminster. The new owner values the Nassak diamond, 78 5-8 carats, at $400,000. Maybe it's unlucky like the Hope diamond. Warren Hastings was impeached. The Duke of Westminster had to sell the gem because of income taxes.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN'S CLUB WILL PRESENT MARIONETTES PRODUCTION HERE APRIL 26

Something unique in the way of entertainment is promised for Santa Ana and vicinity April 26 when Jean Gros' French Marionettes will be presented at the Yost Spurgeon theater under the auspices of the University Women's Club of Orange County. Two productions, one in the afternoon and one in the evening, will be presented.

The marionette is an evolution of the Punch and Judy show, one of the oldest forms of entertainment known. But whereas the Punch and Judy and similar shows on a small scale are operated by the gloved hand, the operation of the modern marionette production entails a vast amount of work not even dreamed of except by the few connected with their manufacture and the productions in some way.

Gros With Bernhardt

Gros' marionettes are at the top in this form of entertainment, Gros himself personally directing the manipulation, his wife and five assistants being with him in the productions which will be presented in Santa Ana. Gros was a juvenile actor with Bernhardt for 10 years and a great personal favorite of the famous tragedian while his father was for years her manager and during his time Paris' leading dramatic critic.

Gros took up the marionettes as a diversion, it later becoming a hobby, and he has now for a number of years made it a very real vocation. He has a fine tenor voice he uses to advantage in his presentation of his puppet entertainers. All of his assistants are finished actors of the speaking stage as well as being versed in the manipulation of the marionettes, thus contributing intelligently to the realism of the productions.

Three shows will be given, the repertoire being planned with a view to appealing to both young and old. The show planned entirely for children is "Uncle Wiggily," the beloved bunny of Garls' bedtime stories, a 12-piece bunny orchestra being one of the features.

Play Given in Three Acts

The play is in three acts, the antics of the bunnies being so funny the children are said to scream with delight throughout its presentation, and the grownups are little less interested than the children.

The second show is "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn," designed to interest both the children and the grownups, while the third is Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream," a charming colorful production in which the litle figures are exquisitely gowned and the stage settings and scenes a faithful replica of the speaking stage productions.

In the presentations of the marionettes, the most skilled painters are employed the stage and all settings having to be in exact proportions to stimulate the illusion created by the puppets which are so much smaller on inspection "behind the scenes," than they appear, that the revelation is said to be amazing.

Raw Wheat Cure For All Ills Is Now Paris Craze

PARIS, April 1.—Raw wheat as a cure for all ills is the latest craze of intellectual Parisians.

Andre Laphin, a writer on dietetics, started it in a series of articles in Comoedia, the theatrical and artistic daily newspaper, extolling the beneficial effects of munching a teaspoonful of germinating wheat before luncheon every day.

And now fashionable doctors are prescribing it for their patients and the principal restaurants are arranging to serve the magic teaspoonful as as a hors d'oeuvre.

YOUNG ANAHEIM MARINE TELLS OF CHINA WAR

ANAHEIM, April 1.—Telling of such incidents as the recapture of a Standard Oil company barge that had been taken by Chinese rebels and an Oriental typhoon encountered while enroute to Shanghai, as if these events were of commonplace occurance, a letter has just been received by Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Rauch, of 713 Paulina street, from their son, Nicholas Rauch, at present a marine stationed in China.

Young Nicholas, who was a student at the Anaheim union high school up until November, last year, when he decided to "see the world with the marines," is now a private in the Twenty-first company, third battalion, fourth regiment, of the United States marines, and a member of the west coast expeditionary forces, as the detachments recently sent to China are called.

The letter arrived early yesterday morning after being 21 days enroute. It was brought from Shanghai on an American transport vessel to San Francisco and there mailed to Anaheim. It was dated March 11, at which time, according to the writer, little excitement had yet occurred in Shanghai.

The letter in full is as follows:

"Well, I'm in China now. The boat arrived in Shanghai on the twenty-fourth of February. We had a very nice trip across, making the trip in record time for a transport, 19 days.

"The weather was fairly good, except after we left Honolulu when we ran into a typhoon. It rained a lot then so that we could hardly come up above decks.

"We are still stationed on board the boat. We have liberty every other day and on Monday. Wednesday and Thursday we go ashore on Standard Oil company property to drill.

"There hasn't been any trouble here yet. The Chinese are fighting a few miles southwest of Shanghai now. Whenever they come into Shanghai we will have to get out, so we never know when that might be. It might be any minute.

"Some rebels stole a Standard tug boat one dayand about 50 marines, on board a destroyer, went out to bring it back. That's the only time we have been out as yet.

"You sure can buy a lot of things cheap here. You can get silks, brass work, wood carving and all kinds of lace and jewelry here about one-fourth as cheap as you can in the States.

"Our money is worth much more than Chinese money. You get $2.22 in Chinese money for $1 in American money and $1 in Chinese money will go as far as $1 in American money."

The meeting, to be held in the San Juan Capistrano high school, will be called to order at 9:30 a. m., by Mrs. J. V. Kelsey, district president. Principal J. S. GERMANY HAS RUM BATTLE ON HANDS

BERLIN, April 1.—Bootleggers of grain alcohol, illegally redistilled from a patented motor car "gasoline," are increasing in such numbers that the federal government is considering enlarging its force of liquor agents to cope with the new evil. Since Cologne police seized two stills and 5000 gallons of alcohol and arrested two men on charges of manufacturing alcohol without a license, raids in other parts of the country have disclosed that the extraction of alcohol from the motor fuel and its sale to liquor industries have grown to be a tremendous business.

The evil was more or less sponsored by the government itself in fostering the manufacture of a "gasoline" called Monopolin to curb the heavy imports of gasoline until the Bergius and Fischer processes of converting soft coal into oils and gasoline are adapted for commercial production. Monopolin consists of 60 per cent pure alcohol made from potatoes, ether and benzine. It sells for less than ordinary gas and is said to give more power per gallon. The postoffice department and many bus companies use Monopolin exclusively for their motor vehicles.

It is a comparatively simple process to redistill the fuel and get a grain alcohol which is virtually 100 per cent pure. About 3,000,000 tons of potatoes were used last year for the manufacture of alcohol for motor fuel, or 10 per cent of the total crop.

DISTRIBUTION WITHOUT WASTE

The Meaning of Our Motto

Our motto, as you have probably noticed, is: "Distribution Without Waste." Perhaps you have wondered what we mean by this. It means just what it says. We strive to distribute the necessities of life—as nearly as it is humanly possible to do—without waste. By the introduction of modern economical methods we have been able to eliminate many wasteful and expensive practices in the retailing of foods—practices which formerly laid a heavy burden on the shoulders of the consumer. Through dealing in such vast quantities, we are able to avoid many customary profits and find and correct most of the usual causes of waste. These are some of the reasons why we can and do consistently sell high quality foods at such uniformly low prices. Compare these values.

"RED" GRANGE FAILS TO AID MOVIE GIRLS

Miss Gail Webster, 22, pretty motion picture extra, who with Miss Marjorie Stewart, 20, yesterday appealed to Harold "Red" Grange for financial assistance in getting out of the Huntington Beach jail, is dancing alone in jail today.

The S. O. S. call sent to the famous red head failed to bring any response from him in person. Late yesterday afternoon a man whose name cannot be learned, appeared at Huntington Beach and paid the $50 fine imposed upon Miss Stewart. Miss Webster was brought to the Orange county jail.

The two girls were arrested at 3 a. m. yesterday morning in company with Harry Anderson, of 1312 Magnolia avenue, Huntington Beach. Anderson was assessed $100 when he pleaded guilty to a charge of being intoxicated. The two girls were sentenced to pay fines of $50 each or spend 50 days each in jail on similar charges.

After talking to Grange over the telephone the girls were reported by Huntington Beach officers to be in exuberant spirits. They are alleged to have sang and danced in jail.

Reports from Los Angeles today were to the effect that "Red" "barely knew the girls" and viewed their phone call as a joke.

CHURCH FILM TO BE RUN AT S. A. THEATER

The Eucharistic congress pictures which will be shown this evening, 7-9 o'clock, at Yost's Spurgeon St. theater, with full orchestral accompaniment, make a colorful pageant for two hours of impressive and historical entertainment. Probably in the lifetimes of those who will witness it, there will never be opportunity to see again such a spectacle in this country, which, for the first time entertained the congress, which met for the twenty-eighth time, Santa Ana Catholics say.

Los Angeles had the honor of presenting the Fox film for its premiere, and Santa Ana is the second city to show it. The people of the south part of Orange county have been invited to come to Yost's Spurgeon Street theater to see the picture tonight, and nuns and school children were among the large audience which filled the theater this afternoon.

The Eucharistic congress has been called the $50,000,00 convention by the merchants of the Windy City. It is estimated that each of the two millions of people who journeyed there spent at least $10 per day, no reckoning having been taken of railroad fare. Under this heading the estimate is $7,000,000 in ocean transportation, $356,000 in inland water travel, and $4,000,000 in railroad fares, and on the great day at Mundelein, Ill., when the greatest procession of the Blessed Sacrament took place, $1,500,000 was spent to transport the great crowds from Chicago and return.

With the possible exception of the armistice of the great World war, no single event has received more widespread notice in the columns of the daily press than the congress, it is reported.

One enterprising news clipping agency in Chicago has assembled almost 60,000 editorial comments on the great religious manifestation, another 15,000 clippings from the European press, while still another has 12,000 editorials from the columns of religious papers.

RAIL BOOKLET SHOWS PACIFIC COAST SCENERY

One of the finest collections of California scenery it is possible to reproduce photographically on heavy art paper, has just been issued by the Southern Pacific lines. The book, bound in brilliantly colored covers, painted by Maurice Logan, contains 74 photographs of California's principal spots of scenic, romantic and historic interest.

In its foreword, the Southern Pacific says:

"This book is for remembrance. When your trip to California is over, the pictures between these covers of California's hills and valleys, beaches and playgrounds will bring back the pleasant days you passed on the Pacific slope.

Of the cover, painted by Maurice Logan, it is said:

"In this picture are suggested some of the elements of California's charm. There are hills and valleys in it with luxurious greens and rich browns; there are the rugged outline of the ocean shore, the blue water of the Pacific with its fringe of foamy surf dancing in the sunlight. And in the picture, as in every part of California, may be seen happy people enjoying life."

Copies of the book may be obtained through the Southern Pacific offices.

NEWS FROM ORANGE COUNTY TOWNS

NEW CHARTER PLANNED FOR EARLY CHURCH

WESTMINSTER, April 1.—Much interest was aroused in Presbyterian church circles this week, when the pastor, the Rev. R. A. Weld, announced that a new charter for the church would have to be secured, the one obtained 50 years ago, having expired several months ago.

A great many of the people attending this church now know little of the early history of the spot on which the comfortable building now stands, or the determination on the part of the early settlers to maintain a place of worship.

In 1869, the first Presbyterian church in Southern California was organized at Anaheim by Rev. Lemuel P. Webber, formerly of New Jersey.

Cherishing within his heart the desire to establish a Presbyterian colony, and favoring the delightful climate of Southern California, he chose the site now known as Westminister to carry out his plans. Advertising in California and eastern papers, he offered the land at $13 per acre, and invited all Christian people, especially Presbyterians, to come and take up their abode there, naming the colony Westminster for the noted English cathedral.

John Youell Anderson was the first settler, moving from Anaheim early in 1870, and it was in his house, which still stands, that the first Sunday school here was organized.

On Sunday, September 15, 1872, a church, with 18 members, was organized, its charter members being J. Y. Anderson, Mrs. Anderson, George Danskin, Mrs. Danskin Thomas Edwards, Mrs. Edwards, Bessie Goldsworthy, James McFadden, Mrs. McFadden, S. McPherson, Mrs. Mattie McPherson, Mrs. A. J. McPherson, P. M. Napier, W. F. Poor, James Stewart, Mrs. Stewart, John Taylor and Albert Webber.

This was the third Presbyterian church to be established in Southern California. Services were held in the Anderson home and then in the upstairs of the town hall, which Westminster people now know as the garage which burned down several years ago across from the postoffice.

IN 1879 the church building was built on the spot where the present church building stands, and was dedicated with the Rev. A. J. Compton of Watsonville as pastor. Deacon McKinney was the architect and builder of the old church, but died before it was fully completed. The church became self supporting in 1895.

Pastors who have served the church to date include the Revs. L. P. Webber, S. B. King, A. J. Compton, James White, F. H. Robinson, W. W. Wells, George Fackler, William B. McElwee, A. C. Junkin, Richard Pyke, J. W. Millar, A. M. Prewitt, H. C. Cockrum, William T. Wardle and the present pastor, the Rev. R. A. Weld.

The church was burned down on the night of June 20, 1915, and a little more than seven months afterward, the present building was completed.

Shipments From P. E. Station In Brea Increase

BREA, April 1.—Fresh coats of paint, inside and out, have improved the appearance of the Pacific Electric Railway company's station here. Further improvement planned by this company is the paving of the space between the station and the freight tracks on the south at an estimated cost of $1800. According to the agent, C. E. Rutledge, shipments from this station have increased 45 per cent during the past year, incoming shipments remaining about the same. Rutledge attributes the increase in outgoing freight and express to the increased shipments of the Duro Engineering company and the Shaffer Tool works, both of which companies are shipping almost daily, the volume of their business running from one to three tons per shipment. In extreme cases, where orders must be filled with haste, these shipments are sent by express to points as distant as Texas and Oklahoma.

'FURNITURE,' SAW ON BEACH PROGRAM

BY HELEN L. COFFIN

NEWPORT BEACH, April 1—Human furniture and a musical saw were the surprise features of the program at the community social in the Methodist church Tuesday evening.

A clever and laughable little skit was put on by a group of the Epworth league young people in which they suggested in pantomine what to do when too many young gentlemen callers came on the same evening. The cast was as follows: Youngwoman, Miss Emma Hadley; maid, Miss Frankie Thompson; hat rack, Roy Crewshaw; couch, Earl Perkins; table, Sheldon Smith; armchair, Blanchard Beatty and Herbert Thompson who upset the whole works and brought down the curtain by trying to sit down on the armchair.

The saw was just a common, ordinary saw, and the owner says it was a second hand one at that. The owner is J. C. Harden, of La Mirada, and he works magic on the commonplace by playing "tunes" on the back edge of it with a violin bow.

The pictures were unusually interesting. There was a story film, "The Old-Fashioned Flapper," Felix had some exciting adventures when he was broadcasted over the air. The local views were of Corona del Mar, the harbor entrance and some of the new buildings going up in Newport. A reel, Lowell's poem, "The Vision of Sir Launfal" was shown.

Wells along the ocean front seem to be more prolific than wells situated back from the ocean. Ocean front wells are coming in at more than 1000 barrels, while wells back from the ocean have been averaging from 400 to 800 barrels per day.

L. B. CHILDREN TO PRESENT PAGEANT

LAGUNA BEACH, Apr 1—Plans are under way by the Children's theater for a May day pageant, which will be presented in the grounds of the Woman's club, using the hills back of the clubhouse as part of the setting. There will be room to seat more than 1000 persons comfortably and every seat will have an unobstructed view of the out door stage, which is raised above the audience and is 50 feet deep.

The Children's theater is the junior auxiliary of the Woman's club and is giving the fete in recognition of the courtesy due the parent body. The director is Mrs. Joseph S. Thurston, who is also president of the Woman's club. The Children's theater, however, has its own officers and transacts its own business.

The pageant will have a May queen, and a dance around the May pole, which will be wound in colored ribbons by children of the first and second grades, trained under Miss Marie Madden. The other dancers are being trained by Mrs. Hiel G. Rider, who is a director of the Children's theater. A pageant of real beauty will follow the May pole dance, ending with the march of the children over the brow of the hill to the music of the Pied Piper. The last seen of the little actors will be as the king and queen disappear over the hill.

Over 60 children are being trained in the clubhouse at the present time for their work in the forthcoming production. Tickets are sold all over the county for the show, which will be given April 30.

NOW a new and better can for Hills Bros Coffee

Cover slips over top—fits tight—won't fall off

1 This is the way the new Hills Bros. Coffee can looks when it comes to you. The key is attached to the cover. It turns easily and smoothly, and keeps on the track.

2 Now the new improved cover is off. The top edges of the can are rolled smooth—no sharp edges to cut fingers.

3 Here the cover is back on the can to keep your coffee fresh. It slips tightly over the top of the can—easy to put on and take off, and it won't fall off.

EXACTNESS—attention to the little things—has been the reason for the success and popularity of Hills Bros. Coffee.

This policy of carefulness led Hills Bros. to discover and develop Controlled Roasting, the patented process which roasts only a few pounds of coffee at a time, instead of in bulk. As a result, Hills Bros. Coffee sets an unapproachable standard in aroma, flavor and richness.

And now, a little thing—but a betterment—Hills Bros. have improved the can in which the coffee you love to drink is vacuum packed. At first glance, there doesn't seem to be any change. The all-important words "Hills Bros. Coffee" are there—also the Arab, the famous trade-mark. But when you open the can, you'll appreciate the difference. The key turns easier and keeps on the track. The cover slips over the top. No sharp edges to cut the fingers. Best of all, the cover fits tightly—won't fall off.

RESIGNATION OF KELLOGG SEEN AS CERTAINTY

WASHINGTON, April 1. — It is not especially surprising that Secretary Kellogg's resignation is rumored to be impending, but the virulence of this rumor and the credence which it is given by nearly everyone in Washington is astonishing.

All around the town, the most frequent question heard is not as to whether Kellogg will quit, but when?

No sooner does one get within the doors of an embassy or legation than this question is popped at him.

Another demonstration of the power with which this ever-recurring rumor has gripped general imagination is to be seen in the regiment of names which have been advanced as Kellogg's possible successor. Here are only a few of them:

Possible Successors

Dwight Morrow.
Herbert Hoover.
Irvine L. Lenroot.
James W. Wadsworth.
Alanson B. Houghton.
John Bassett Moore.
David Jayne Hill.
Charles Beecher Warren.

Your correspondent has long since pointed out that only the most incurable optimist could expect Kellogg to quit—or expect President Coolidge to let him quit—until he had achieved something to which someone might conceivably point with pride.

But there doesn't seem any prestige to be gained in Nicaragua, China presents only the possibility of trouble, prospects for brilliant performance at the new disarmament conference become daily more dismal and there remains only a chance to do something with that situation right under our nose, our squabble with Mexico. The negotiations between Ambassador Tellez and Brother Kellogg, it is reasonable to suspect, will furnish a satisfactory cue for a creditable if not a glorious exit.

Situation is Painful

An unprejudiced observer must admit that the situation is becoming more and more painful. It is not only that Latin-American diplomats are suspicious and afraid of Kellogg, but there seems little sympathy or any more than the barest surface loyalty to him in the state department.

One attends a private dinner and hears a high official of the department flay Kellogg mercilessly.

One of the most amazing sidelights of all was shed when a nationally know correspondent wrote recently that Kellogg's immediate subordinates, regarding him as a politician, told him no more than they were absolutely obliged to about the affairs of state.

Predictions have been heard recently that congressional investigation of the state department is certain if Kellogg still is in office next December.

JOKES CONCERNING SCOTCHMEN DENIED

LONDON, April 1.—Jokes about stingy Scotsmen do not go with Sir Stanford London, an old-time tax collector, who says that the dwellers north of the Tweed are the best taxpayers in the kingdom.

Actors and sailors, partly because of their occupations and temperament, are the most difficult persons from whom to collect the income tax, asserts Sir Stanford, who entered the inland revenue service in 1881 and has just retired from the position of chief inspector of taxes.

"It has been my experience that Scotsmen always pay up quicker than anyone else," Sir Stanford explained, "although, it has been suggested, this may be partly due to the fear of incurring additional expense by contesting the demand and having to spend more money in the end."

Chinese, too, pay up promptly, when they realize there is no other way out.

Seeks Recognition Of Water Battle

SACRAMENTO, April 1.—Assemblyman Dan E. Williams, representative of Inyo county in the state assembly, has announced that he will ask Governor Young and the legislature to take official recognition of the 20-year feud between Owens valley interests and the city of Los Angeles over water rights. Williams will first propose that the legislature act as an arbitration board. But failure of the interests to accept this plan will result in Williams' requesting the legislature to appoint a commission to investigate conditions in Owens valley and report back immediately, recommending what action to take.

FRANCE BUILDS FORTIFICATIONS AS PEACE MOVE

PARIS, April 1.—Petit Parisien contains an interview with Minister of War M. Painleve in which he argues that "the only way to make peace is to prepare for war."

Minister Painleve then announces that next July he will begin the construction of an immense system of fortifications on the frontier between Alsace-Lorraine and Germany, which will continue without interruption for several years; the duration will be limited only by financial possibilities.

M. Painleve hopes there will be no misunderstanding about "this great task of military protection," which France is undertaking only in the interest of general peace, for if she were known to be incapable of victoriously resisting invasion "it would be the most dangerous of temptations for the evil forces that torment our old world."

The only reasons, M. Painleve says, why the task has not already been begun are lack of money and the reproaches to which France would have been subjected had she spent thousands of millions on fortifications before restoring the devastated regions. In his opinion the action of France should in no way slacken the great effort for moral disarmament, but he does not mention material disarmament.

M. Bourget, the military expert, says the real line of defense is on the Saar and since it is impossible to construct permanent fortifications in peace time outside French territory, the fortified regions will serve as a base for an offensive maneuver against an enemy marching toward the west.

M. Bourget admits that France will probably be reproached with constructing aggressive fortifications such as those which Germany was reproached for making against Poland, and has consented to destroy, but his reply is that the offensive would be made only against an enemy that had already crossed the greater part of the neutral zone.

What the French taxpayer will think of these projects remains to be seen. It has been asserted that the new army organization will add 7,000,000,000 fancs a year to taxation. What the cost of the proposed fortifications will be nobody knows, not even M. Painleve.

WOULD BUILD PARK AT BALLOON SCHOOL

ARCADIA, April 1.—Steps have been taken here to communicate with Major General Patrick, chief of the army air service, to have the city of Arcadia included in projected disposal of Ross field here in the event that action of this nature is taken by the government.

At an open meeting of the city planning commission, the proposal that the city be bonded not more than $100,000 for the purchase and conditioning of a recreational park on the site of the formerballoon school received indorsement. A minimum land plot of 20 acres was further detailed in the proposal.

It is reported that the action is in consequence of recent move on the part of the board of supervisors in seeking to have congress approve of the transfer of the lands deeded to the government during the World war back to the county.

Holdup Men Sorry For Storekeeper; Refuse His Money

PAMPA, Tex., April 1.—Three bandits, who robbed the First National Bank of Pampa of $20,000 yesterday spared J. E. Massey, a customer, his $1100 deposit, because he wasn't insured against loss.

The armed holdup men listened to Massey when he explained his money was not insured and asked that they not rob him.

"Well, if you're going to stand the loss personally, we'll give it back," he finally said, returning the money to the amazed storekeeper.

Massey thanked him, backing up against the wall while the robbery took place.

When they had "sacked up" all of the money in sight, the trio drove the employes into the vault and locked it, fleeing eastward in an automobile.

Women Need a Mild Laxative -Not a "Physic"

Countless girls and women now know how foolish and needless it is to "purge" and "physic" themselves to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, sallow skin, colds, or sour, gassy stomach.

They have found that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even for those heretofore chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it never gripes, sickens or upsets the most delicate girl or woman. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

NEWS FROM ORANGE AND SURROUNDING DISTRICT

$15,000 FLOOD REPAIR WORK INAUGURATED

OLIVE, April 1.—With 20 teams and a crew of approximately 35 men engaged in the work, flood repairs are being rushed to completion along the Santa Ana river in the Olive-West Orange flood protection district, it was announced today by K. V. Wolff, secretary.

Nearly all of the major breaks caused by the heavy February storms between the Richfield and the Olive-Anaheim bridge have been repaired, with work now being concentrated on the section south of the Anaheim boulevard in the vicinity of the Southern Pacific bridge.

Wolff stated that most of the repair work between the two former spots has been completed, excepting for one small break near the Santa Fe bridge above Olive.

Funds for the emergency work were raised through a $15,000 note, signed by approximately 28 ranchers in the flood control district. When the annual budget is submitted to the county supervisors this summer, provisions will be included to retire the note, Wolff said.

In addition to the regular maintenance items, the budget will also make provisions for further repair work in order to prevent recurrence of the past flood damage.

Wolff estimated that another $5,000 would probably be necessary to complete the repair program. This work, however, will not be done until the regular funds become available as provided in the budget.

Skin now without a blemish

Bethel, Maine, July 13:—"About seven years ago my nephew developed a severe case of skin trouble which looked like eczema. His face, hands and whole body were covered with the trouble and his skin became raw from scratching. Many soaps and ointments were tried without success before Resinol Soap and Ointment were prescribed and used. The first few applications stopped the itching and soon he was entirely healed. He now has the loveliest skin I ever saw and, thanks to Resinol Soap and Ointment, no unsightly blotches mar the beauty of his complexion." (Signed) Vivian M. Eagle, Vernon Street.

Ranch work is being curtailed by the great number of men who stop to interview the ranchers. That much acreage remains to be leased is known. Many ranchers are holding back, hoping for higher prices or more favorable conditions, according to the residents.

While the Standard, the first company in the field, paid $3 per acre, other companies are said to be offering as high as $10 per acre.

Two autos carried them as far as possible, the girls hiking the rest of the way. Mrs. Douglass Marshburn, the class teacher, drove one car, and the Rev. and Mrs. T. J. Coborn were in the other car. Following are the girls of the party: Verna Hampson, Claris Snyder, Eileen McCollum, Alice Stoner Lois Coburn, Frances Curl, Jennie and Jessie McMarrow and Juanita Farree.

Guests for Sunday dinner at the Joseph Bricke home were Mrs. Alice House and J. E. House, mother and brother of Mrs. Bricke; Mrs. Lydia Hemmingway of El Toro, and Roy Benson, of Huntington Beach.

Guests at the Culter home over the week-end were Mrs. P. L. Gillett and two daughters, Alice and Elizabeth, and Miss Caroline Rowe, friends of Miss Mabel Culter while in China. P. L. Gillett was president of the board of the school in China where Miss Culter was principal and the three girls were students.

Esmelda Arballo took first place Tuesday in the track meet at the school and Dolores Mares was second. This was preliminary to the track meet which will be at Olinda Saturday, when about 35 students from here will go to Olinda.

A number of local folks attended the funeral of John Miller in Santa Ana Thursday morning. Mr. Miller and his family was a former resident of this place.

CHINA WILL BE GREAT NATION, CLAIMS BICKEL

BOSTON, Mass., April 1.—Speaking before the Boston Chamber of Commerce yesterday, Karl A. Bickel, president of the United Press association, declared that "not since 1914 have there been such possibilities in the foreign field for weal or woe for America as now."

"Because ours is a government by public opinion," he added, "and news is the raw material out of which public opinion is created, no greater blight could fall upon the United States than the creation of a monopoly in news distribution.

"Such a monopoly, by virtue of its domination over the American press, could shape and mould the national mind, strangling progress and stupefying initiative. The organization of the United Press, which distributes news reports on a non-exclusive basis, has forever removed, not only in America, but throughout the world, the menace of such a news control."

Bickel's subject was "big business and the news."

Delicate State of Mind

"We face a most delicate and sensitive state of public mind throughout all Latin-America," he declared. "Earnest, sincere and early steps will have to be taken to bring the nations of Latin-America and our own country again into a real accord.

"Events in China are momentous. We are witnessing the literal birth of a great nation—a nation that within the present century will take its place as one of the world's dominant powers. The sleeper has awakened. China is thoroughly aroused. It is silly to refer to events now taking place in China as resulting primarily from Russian agitation or the application of Moscow gold. The Cantonese have their program—a demand for the right to conduct their national life on a basis of equality with other peoples.

"It is enormously attractive to all classes and all divisions of Chinese. This did not spring from the Russians.

"It was a natural growth and result of the years of mistreatment and diplomatic bungling that China has, generally speaking, suffered from most of the so-called western powers.

U. S. Refused to Help

"The American record to date in China is conspicuously better than some others, but when Sun Yat Sen, a few years ago, appealed to America for instructors and treachers as guides for the movement for Chinese nationalism, we refused to help.

"Then the Canton leader turned to Russia, and Russia, having very definite and clear-cut Asiatic policy, the objective of which is to place Russia in a position of leadership in the Pacific area along with China and Japan, quickly accepted and today Russian influence is without doubt paramount in China.

"But the Chinese nationalistic movement is fundamentally Chinese and in Chiang Kai Shek and in T. V. Soong, the Harvard trained treasurer of the Cantonese, two leaders have apparently arisen who are strong and able enough to create what has not existed in fact since 1911, a really united Chinese nation.

"And with the creation of that new nation, all of our previous conceptions as to the distribution of power on this world of ours must be revised. All the blood and travail of the great war failed to produce anything that was more fundamentally important and significant than has been brought about in 90 days of campaigning by the Cantonese."

Relation of News, Opinion

Reverting to the relation of news and public opinion, Bickel said:

"If public opinion is to retain its vitality and its strength, the press of America must always have at its command a free and steadily expanding source of news supply, open to the constanly changing demands and desires of the nation's news consumers—the newspaper readers—and ready at all times to welcome new and vigorous forces into the ranks of American journalism. Had it not been for the existence of the United Press during the last 20 years, many of the most important and widely circulated newspapers in America would not be in existence today."

THE LIFE OF CHRIST The Conversion of Zacchaeus

SYNOPSIS ARRANGED BY DR. WM. E. GILROY, D. D. SKETCHES BY KROESEN

As Jesus, thronged with the multitude, passed near Jericho, Zacchaeus, despised as a tax-gatherer for the foreign Roman power, climbed a tree to see Jesus, because he was short in stature. (Luke XIX : 1)

Jesus looked up and saw him, and said, "Zacchaeus, make haste, and come down, for today I must abide at thy house." (Luke XIX : 5)

The people murmured that Jesus had gone to be the guest of a sinner, but Jesus, recognizing the sincerity of Zacchaeus, proclaimed his salvation. (Luke XIX : 7-10)

Jesus taught the lesson of watchfulness and faithfulness in the Parable of the Pounds, in which he condemned the man to whom his master had given only one pound for hiding that pound in a napkin. (Luke XIX : 12-26)

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN — PICTURES by KNICK

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Tinies started in to play, but soon the black sheep ran away. "Oh, Clowny scared it," Coppy said, "by trying to take a ride." The other Tinies knew, of course, a sheep's a sheep and not a horse, and such a think as riding one was foolishness, when tried.

The bunch then walked along the brook; they came upon a cozy nook where grass was long, and tall, wide trees spread out a map of shade. "Our sheep is gone. Why should we weep?" said Scouty. "Here's a place to sleep, so let's all flop and take a rest." And soon a bed was made.

They gathered leaves from all around and spread them nicely on the ground. "Just like a fluffy feather-bed," said Clowny, in delight. The sun soon faded from the skies, and every Tiny closed his eyes. It seemed they all were very tired, and slept sound through the night.

When morning came, they all jumped up, and Coppy found an old tin cup. He scampered to the nearby stream and scooped a chilly drink. They found wild berries in the wood, and all agreed they tasted good. "What shall we do now?" Scouty said. "Just wait until I think."

But, as he thought, they heard a sound, and when the whole bunch turned around, they saw a pretty little girl a-running up the lane. "What is she chasing?" Clowny said. "Why, that's a gander, just ahead." And soon they heard the gander quack. And then it quacked again.

"Say, can we help you?" Coppy cried. "You bet you can," the girl replied. "This gander's very wild-like, and he wanders all around." The Tinies then took up the chase and scampered all around the place, until the gander topped, and they pinned him to the ground.

DANCING AND EXERCISE

Dancing is Good Exercise

You already know that dancing is about the best exercise you can get. It not only develops the lower part of the figure (I'm speaking of ballroom dancing now, not fancy dancing) but it makes the entire figure graceful. You never met a woman who was a good dancer, who was not also fairly slim, with a good figure, a light carriage, a great deal of grace.

So, if you seem to have no opportunities for dancing, get up a class among your own friends, large enough so you can afford a teacher if you do not already know how. In these days of radios and phonographs, there is no lack of music, and a few couples can dance easily in any small living room. It's not as nice as dancing in a big room, but it will give you the exercise and the enjoyment you want.

If you can, get up a class for fancy dancing, with a teacher. If she's a good teacher, she will put you all through a drill first, to limber your muscles. Folk dancing and certain forms of fancy dancing will develop every part of your body—arms, back, chest, slim down a fat waist and take pounds off thick hips, make the legs shapely and the ankles slender. It does more than that—it gives you a muscular co-ordination, which means a perfect control over all the muscles of your body, which is another way of saying that dancing makes you graceful. The best part is that the grace you acquire, or the perfect muscular control, extends to everything—you will be graceful even when you relax in a chair or on a couch.

If neither of these plans is possible, get a book about dancing, there are dozens, and dance by yourself simply as exercise, to radio or phonograph music.

Blondy—Glycerine disagrees to the extent where it can't be used on some skins, and with others it causes pimples or slight irritations. Evidently it does not effect you that way, so there is no reason why you should discontinue it. The mixture of glycerine and bay rum is particularly nice for the hands, usually to keep the skin soft, but there are much better choices for the complexion.

Margie—At 15, height five feet, four inches, your weight of 120 pounds is excessive, but you are growing and there is no set standard for these matters at your age.

BEAUTY

Some things there are beyond both wealth and fame
Yet sorely needed in this life of ours;
Song birds in summer and geranium flowers,
A share in which the passer-by claim,
Joys, which for one and all remain the same:
Rivers, and hills and beauty's changeful bowers
Which ask but love, regardless of our powers.
And in return set every eye aflame.
Life without these were sordid, cold and bare;
Sunrise and sunset and the golden moon,
Song birds and roses of the blossomy June.
For neither gold nor fame could satisfy
The soul of man if loveliness should die.

THE WOMAN'S DAY

BY ALLENE SUMNER

A day or so ago I dissertated in this sacred space about the bygone days when "us girls" were suffused with shame to be told by a blushing, apologetic passer-by that our petticoat "showed." Another contrast between the days that are and the days that were smote me last evening as I sat in the parental abode, pinning fresh collars and cuffs into divers frocks. A senior member of the household watched me aghast, and finally snatched the garments from me. "Let me sew them in decently!" said the senior member extracting with a most self-righteous air the dozen or more cute little gold pins with which I had attached the clean cuffs and collars.

Wouldn't Do It

But I was firm. "Thank you," said I. "But the pins will do very nicely. I have to change these every day or so and I can't be bothered with stitches taken out and stitches taken in." The same senior member of the household regards with horror and disdain my self-discovered method of sock-darning. I use the verb "darning," but it isn't that at all. It's the cute little method of sewing the hole together, and when it comes unsewn, throwing the sock away.

"I Don't Care!"

Nor am I in the slightest apologetic to the senior member. I state my case to her over and over. I tell her that perhaps when she was a girl, staying home with her mama, she would have been wasteful, slovenly, all the things that in her innermost heart she thinks me, if she used safety pins and caught sock holes together with a stitch or so. But I tell her that I and any other business girl of today would be much more wasteful if we spent hours in fine mending and laundering and all the good old-time housewifely virtues which we might and should spend in recreation and conservation of energy for jobs a bit more responsible and remunerative than sock-darning and collar-sewing.

Twin Sisters

I know two business girl twin sisters who started into the business world at the same time. One of them did her own laundry, shined her own shoes, took her lunches to work, pressed and cleaned her suits, shampooed her own hair. The other spent her kale "like a drunken sailor," according to the thrifty sister. She visited a beauty parlor weekly. She sent out her laundry, had her suits pressed at the tailor's, and did her entertaining at her club.

Today the latter sister has a job which pays three times as much as sister one's. She knew that one job was enough, and she had sense enough to choose the more important and profitable job as the one into which she would put her energies. One of my pet peeves is with women who hurt the cause of all women by doing their new job of today and saddling themselves, too, with all the jobs that society expects of women, just because they always have. If we don't hang together on this, we'll hang separately!

":Old Maid"

I'm not sure that there's any connection with the above outburst. But there's a new book about the typical "old maid." It's called "Pa; The Head of the Family," and is by Margaret Ashmun. It's about Mattie Barnet who lived in a community which still looked askance upon women who didn't marry; who regarded them as "unwanted" and "queer" women. "If you were married, no matter how poorly, you could hold up your head with the best of them," reasoned Mattie, going to her doom. And if Mattie had only gone to the city and gotten a job and had a cute little apartment and learned to read books and lunch with friends and go to concerts and shows, how sweet she might have found life! But she wouldn't have. Girls don't re-adapt themselves so easily as all that and the Matties generally stay Matties!

HOSPITAL EDUCATION TAUGHT THE CURE OF ENVIRONMENT

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

There is a great contrast between the hospital of today and the hospital of a quarter of a century ago.

Leaving out the matter of clinics, therapeutics and diagnosis, to say nothing of new methods in operating, there is the fact of the building itself.

I cannot entirely efface the memory of a children's ward I visited in a downtown city hospital years ago. To begin with, the building was in a district submerged winter and summer in a London fog of grime and smoke, all the more hopeless and inescapable as it moved with the vapor of three rivers. It had a pasty quality that clung to the very vitals. The sun was almost an unknown quantity.

Inside the hospital the walls were painted an economical gray. The ceilings were unbelievably high—they must have seen d miles off to the sleepless little children. A few of the children had been there for months. I was told that one or two would never know any other room. There were several hospitals in the city. They were all alike—no one thought then of building in the open and giving the sun a chance. Of course there were no automotive ambulances. But even so, those children needed no ambulance. They should not have been in an emergency hospital at all.

That hospital has moved twice, each time farther away from the smoke and the clang of the mills. The latest one is costing three million dollars. And what part of it is being given the most special attention? The children's wing! It is a far cry from those gray smoky walls I remember to a solarium with real sand and a swimming pool with quartz windows—not glass, mind you—that will fully admit the healing rays of the sun and the penetrating ultra-violet ray.

Hospital education is one of the best things that is happening to us. The actual curative value of environment is undisputed. Our state of mind and our emotions can no longer be discounted as important factors in the functioning and metabolism of the body. Attractive interiors for the sick and attractive exteriors for the convalescent are the new keynotes in building. Gardens, shrubbery, flowers, little gravel paths, perhaps a fountain. How important they are! The pessimists might say it puts a premium on sickness. That is ridiculous and cruel. Anyone who begrudges a sick man, woman or child comfort because it happens to be beautiful, is a mean person indeed.

Queer Quirks of -NATURE-

BY ARTHUR N. PACK

President, American Nature Ass'n.

When young herring gulls are hatched they leave the nest almost immediately, wandering off into the grass or weeds near the nest to find a hiding place and shelter from the sun that beats down on their seashore home.

The gulls nest in great colonies and there are hundreds, sometimes thousands, of the young birds striking out for themselves at the same time. It is the task of each mother gull to locate the hiding place of her own fledglings, unless she is at home when they leave, to see where they go.

Not only must she know where they are, but she must catch small fish for them and distribute them among her family.

The young gulls depend upon their soft gray plumage to hide them among the grasses. They will allow an intruder to approach close enough to touch them without showing signs of fear.

Once they are touched, however, away they go, running as fast as their awkward legs can carry them in the direction of open water, where they swim out and so escape.

OUR JOB AS CITIZENS TODAY

"The ever new intellectual land of beginning again," the words used by Dr. Hubert Work, secretary of the interior, in pointing to one of California's outstanding characteristics, are words that are particularly applicable to Orange county.

Looking back upon the history of the county we find that there never has been a time when the county seemed anywhere near the end of its growth and development. There always has been something bigger and better just ahead, something to work for, a goal of achievement.

Today, looking ahead instead of backward, we find more activity that is ours for the getting than has been at hand for the residents of the county during any decade of the county's history. True, the pioneers of the '70's had the whole world before them, so far as the development of this county was concerned, but they did not have the means and the markets to work with that are ours. They were blessed with the same faith that we have today; they had cast their lot in this glorious land, believing in its potentialities and in the certainty of its future.

This county, like all of California, is subject to the gospel of change. No corner can hope to remain forever the same as it has been. Old charm must give way to new usefulness, with a charm of its own. Our job, then, as citizens of today, is to so shape the destinies of the county that the changes that are to come shall be directed toward the development of the finest home land in all this great, fine state.

Another notable newspaper merger has been announced at Montgomery, Ala. The Montgomery Evening Times has been sold to the owner of the Montgomery Evening Journal. The publication of one of the papers will be discontinued. The merger is another instance of the economic value of reducing the number of newspapers in any city that has more than one. This economic truth is recognized in the trend of newspaperdom all over the United States.

CREDIT WHERE CREDIT IS DUE

Aaron Sapiro may be, as claimed by his friends, one of the greatest living exponents of the benefits to be derived by co-operation on the part of growers, but the fact remains that co-operative marketing of citrus fruits,—which is probably the most successful example of co-operative marketing in the whole country, or, indeed, in the world—was made a success long before Mr. Sapiro was heard of.

Indeed it is barely possible that Henry Ford's attorneys have some justification for their claim that Mr. Sapiro has been building up, or trying to build up, a great reputation for himself as the apostle of co-operative marketing on the strength of what has been accomplished along that line by the California Fruit Growers Exchange.

But, here at home, we will continue to give credit where credit is due, so far as the matter of who made co-operative marketing a success in California is concerned.

It was done, for the most part, by a bunch of men who did not, nor do they now, claim to be heaven-born financiers or anything of that sort. It was done by a number of plain, every-day fruit growers, grangers, ranchers, farmers—call 'em what you may—who had grown tired of working themselves nearly to death to raise a crop of citrus fruit and then turning over the shipping and marketing of it to men who, at the end of the shipping season, "regretted to state" that, after freights and other marketing charges had been paid, nothing remained for the grower.

The need of putting an end to this unbearable condition led to the formation of what is now known as the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, which organization by the way, is not an enemy to the so-called independent shippers, but which will, and does, co-operate with them when it is of mutual benefit to do so.

And co-operative marketing—that is to say, successful co-operative marketing—in the opinion of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, does not consist of merely and only picking and packing of the fruit and shipping it to market. If the organization finds it necessary to buy timber lands and run saw-mills to supply itself with material for boxes for shipping its fruit, the timber lands are bought and the saw-mills are conducted for the benefit of the owners, the fruit growers.

The wonderful growth of this incidental branch of the business is shown by the fact that last year the Fruit Growers Supply Company, which is a subsidiary of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, did a business amounting to $8,286,675—almost a million dollars more than the previous year. At the same time operating costs were reduced twenty-seven cents on the $100.00.

A KING WITHOUT SUBJECTS

England's Duke of York, now on a voyage around the world, has granted an audience to the "greatest" monarch on earth—King Tami Solomon of the Chatham Islands, off New Zealand. King Solomon weighs 392 pounds.

Here, we submit, is a real figure of a king—a man with a psysique and bearing that the common man can truly reverence.

But alas! his kingship is only a shadow. He has almost no subjects at all. His people have been practically wiped out by hostile tribes. He is not only the first man in his realm; he is almost the only one.

Such is the irony of life.

IMPROVING MUSICAL TASTE

"Musical taste in America has been raised higher than in any country of Europe today," said a music critic recently.

Any native music-lover hopes this is true, and believes it may be when he considers some of the musical tendencies of recent years.

First has come the better teaching of music and music appreciation in the public schools. In some communities school credit is given for music practice. A great many boys and girls who will never themselves be musical performers have learned much about good music and have become familiar with a considerable amount of it. There is hardly a high school of any size that does not have its orchestra or its band as well as its school chorus.

The phonograph and then the radio brought the performance of great artists into small homes. Of course it brought jazz, too, but not to any such musically degrading extent as some people have feared.

The annual music memory contests now held in many communities have also helped to familiarize the public with great music and to show to even the humblest musical layman that there are charm and beauty and pleasure in classical works.

There is reason to be proud and happy about the development of this taste for music and to believe that it is still developing.

The First Californian

San Bernardino Sun

Selecting two famous Californians to occupy niches in the Hall of Fame in Washington is only half of a hard job, because one is so naturally chosen that it leaves only one to be disputed about. No man or woman who knows the history of the Golden State could hesitate to name Padre Junipero Serra as the one and unapproachable Californian, without a rival as to his personal character or the influence on his life upon the history of the state. Natural selection of Father Serra leaves but one over which there could properly be any dispute whatever.

Father Serra was both the master mind and the master body in bringing civilization to California and in establishing and developing it. He trudged forward and back from San Diego to San Francisco, constantly on the go establishing and keeping in condition missions and agricultural and pastoral enterprises, from 1769 till 1782, lame of leg and not over vigorous body, until he actually wore himself out and died at the Carmel Mission, where his grave is still kept. No one else ever did and no one will do so much for this state as did Father Serra.

As for the second man we have a number about whom there might well be argument, such as Juan Bautista de Anza, John Fremont, John A. Sutter, James W. Marshall (though he helped by accident rather than by ability and endeavor), Colonel Donophan, Commodore Stockton, Colis P. Huntington, Leland Stanford, Thomas Starr King, and others, all men of sterling worth and great achievement for the welfare of the state. Jedediah Smith has been mentioned as the first man to cross the continent to California, but he was merely leader of a band of trappers and no direct beneficial result followed his visit. Those who settled here and helped develop the state are more deserving of honor.

Millions to Fight Cancer

Kansas City Star

New York is to have the largest cancer institution in the world. Once in operation, it will mark progress in the unremitting campaign against a disease that has baffled scientists and still is a tragic mystery, at least as to effective means of prevention and cure.

The New York Cancer Association has purchased a hospital building known as Hudson Towers. The building has twenty-seven stories. Projected originally as a hospital of general character, its promoters were caught in unexpected costs, and the building was not completed. Under the new contract it is taken over by the cancer association at cost, 3½ million dollars. It is estimated that 1½ millions more will be needed to finish the hospital and equip it. It will have 400 beds and facilities to handle 500 clinical patients daily. One of the outlays will be $420,000 for six grams of radium, the minimum amount regarded as necessary for such an institution.

The new hospital will not be operated for profit, but for the relief of cancer patients at cost, or as nearly so as possible, and for the prosecution of research work. The great fight is on internal cancer. Purely superficial cancer already is under control; that is, when taken in time, almost all cases of this character may be cured.

Progress in coping with numerous other diseases, some of which long had been regarded as incurable, gives undying hope that a cure for cancer may be found and with a means of establishing immunity against the disease.

CLOTHING IS BAD FOR HEALTH IF IT BINDS BODY TOO TIGHTLY

The garments of primitive man were usually simple and, if they covered the body, suspended from the shoulders. The garments of civilized man are numerous and fantastic and suspended from the natural points of protuberance in the human body.

There was a time when suspenders were regularly worn for suspending the trousers in a position both comfortable and modest. Nowadays the belt seems largely to have displaced the suspenders, although conservative persons of portly figure are likely to indulge in both.

Presumably constrictions at the waist are undesirable, although good scientific evidence as to any harm being done by wearing a belt tight enough to hold up the trousers is not yet available.

Collars worn tight enough to constrict the neck may cause pounding noises in the ear and headache.

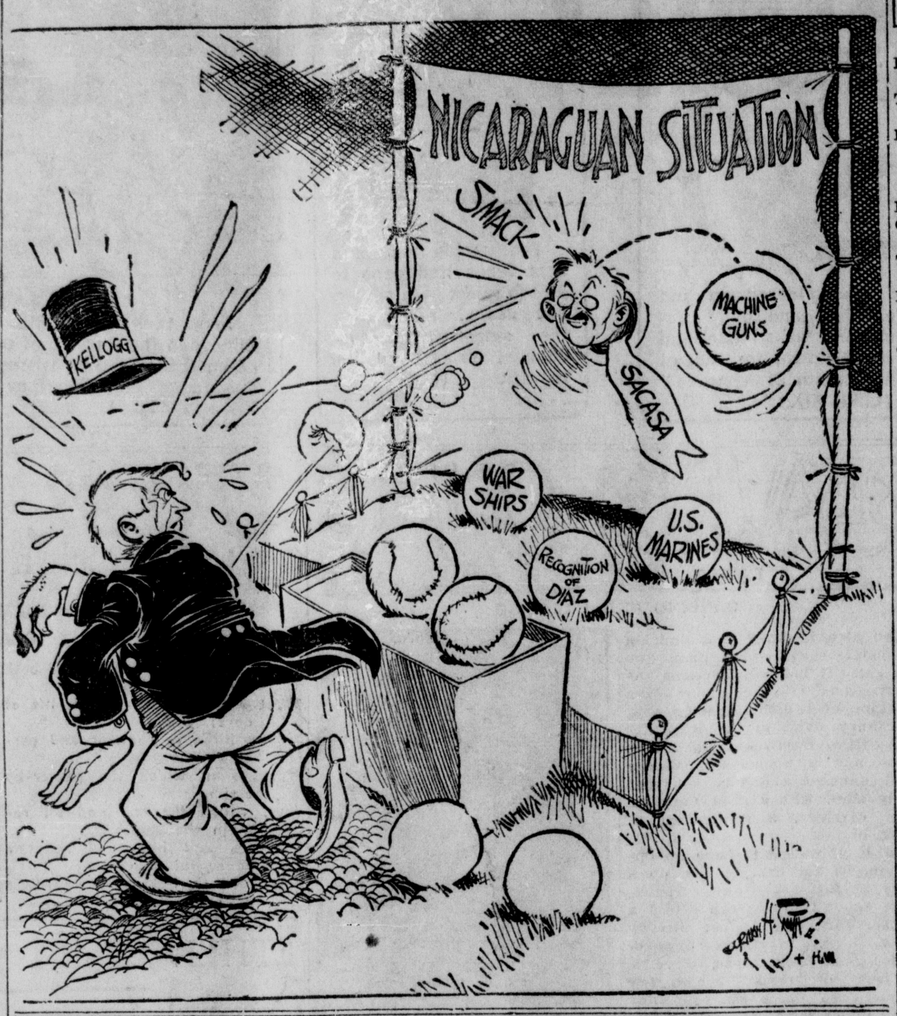

Garters worn tight enough to constrict the blood vessels in the leg may be associated with varicose veins, pains in the feet, swelling of the ankles and similar disturbances. If the garters are worn loose, and if they are of a wide web, they are not likely to produce any serious harm.

The hat that presses too tightly upon the skull may be associated with an interference of the circulation to the scalp and perhaps with the falling of hair, although this has not been proved definitely. In other words, there seems to be good evidence that clothing which too greatly constricts the body is not healthful and should be avoided.

Women have discarded the armor that produced the wasp waist of a past generation, and the modern support or modifier of the figure is a hygienic garment. Otherwise the problem of constrictive clothing does not seem to concern the feminine sex, except so far as concerns round garters or too tightly rolled stockings.

Such constrictions are not advisable, particularly during a child-bearing period, since they have been quite definitely associated with the occurrence of varicose veins. Rubber garments of any type, which do not permit satisfactory ventilation of the skin, may be the cause of maceration of the skin and secondary infection.

Seems to Be a Hard Guy to Eliminate

"It Is Not My Job"

Washington Star

On Tenth street between G and H a pedestrian stepped out into the automobile traffic and picked up a piece of board with several nails sticking out. It was not his job to do it, and he took a chance of being hit by an automobile, but he performed a service for some one he will never know and who will never know that this stranger saved him from having a punctured tire.

On Pennsylvania avenue two women, going to market, stopped and swept into a sewer opening, with a newspaper twisted up like a whiskbroom, a broken bottle. It was not their job, but they knew it would save serious trouble for some one.

How often we hear the protest, "It isn't my job!"

Just doing the work that one must do for wage is not living. It is the extending of the helping hand to others, even to do a service for those we may never know, that makes our days brighter. To know—as the Boy Scouts know—that we have helped others and made them happier, is the best recompense and cheers the heart.

We are all so interdependent upon one another, human society is so interwoven, that a little act of kindness, unostentatiously done, costs little effort and means so much to others. It is the lubricant on the machinery of life.

We should all do more than our job, especially when we can help some one less fortunate, some one weaker, some one who does not know.

Worth While Verse

THE JOY OF THE HILLS

I ride on the mountain tops, I ride
I have found my life and am satisfied.
Onward I ride in the blowing oats,
Checking the field-lark's rippling notes—
Lightly I sweep
From steep to steep:
Over my head through the branches high
Come glimpses of a rushing sky;
The tall oats brush my horse's flanks;
Wild poppies crowd on the sunny banks;
A bee booms out the scented grass;
A jay laughs with me as I pass.

I ride on the hills, I forgive, I forget
Life's hoard of regret—
All the terror and pain
Of the chafing chain.
Grind on, O cities, grind:
I leave you a blur behind.
I am lifted elate—the skies expand:
Here the world's heaped gold is a pile of sand.
Let them weary and work in their narrow walls:
I ride with the voices of waterfalls!

I swing on as one in a dream—I swing
Down the airy hollows, I shout, I sing!
The world is gone like an empty word:
My body's a bough in the wind, my heart a bird!
—From the Poems of Edwan Markham.

Two members of the state board of equalization of taxes spent the day in consultation with County Assessor James Sleeper regarding the assessment of the propagation plant of the Santa Fe Railroad company here.

The Pacific Electric railway extension to Bay City which will afford a more direct electric line between Santa Ana and Long Beach was made a certainty when the county supervisors sold a franchise to the railway company for $100.

County Auditor Cal D. Lester disclosed that the county schools spent $98,451.44 during the month of March. This was nearly twice the total expenditure for the month of February.

Citizens of Placentia asked that that city be allowed to maintain a permanent exhibit in the offices of the Santa Ana chamber of commerce.

RAIN AT NIGHT

I wakened startled, in the weary night
To hear the raindrops patter overhead.
I thought of you, so lonely and so sad,
Frightened and chill, there in your narrow bed.
I was unhappy at the loneliness,
Grieving for you, and bitter with the pain,
Till, like a vivid rainbow after storm,
I suddenly was glad—you loved the rain!

CHRONICLES OF THE LITTLE GRAY HOUSE

It was circus day, so of course the Little Gray House was deserted, but Tall Son's experience at the afternoon's performance was so altogether delightful, that when he related it that evening, I think every timber in the place leaned down to listen.

By his side that afternoon, was a tiny girl, perhaps four years old. Before the performance was very far advanced, she had become trustingly friendly, and leaned her small head back against his protecting arm. "Louise," chided her mother (who had two other tots with her) "Perhaps the young man doesn't want you to lean against him." She turned and surveyed him and then gazing across the rings, said blandly, "Oh, he doesn't mind."

She was quite right . . . he didn't. Indeed he derived much enjoyment from her delight in the spectacle—especially in the various animals. For as each one appeared, the small feet beat an excited tattoo on the broad back of the man in the seat just in front as she squealed "Oh I wish I might ride it!" The enjoyment of the two boys was all the greater because the broad back chanced to be that of Tom Sharkey!

Presently Sharkey was joined by no less a personage than Al G. Barnes himself, and as the little maid cried again and again, "Oh, I wish I might ride it," he listened intently. When the performance finally came to a close, he turned to Tall Son and asked politely, "Is this your little girl?" (imagine Tall Son's expression!) The mother explained the true state of affairs, then came the thing that proved there are really fairies and a Santa Claus, for what did Al G. Barnes do but escort the boys and that little girl to the magic regions behind the Big Top, mount one of the spirited and beautiful "dancing horses," take the child up in front of him, and give her the ride she wanted so much!

Dear Patchwork Lady:

Would you care for a white flannel, pink feather-stitched patch for your quilt? I found this last night when I went over to my little neighbor's and she was putting the baby to bed.

I thought as I watched her, that putting the baby to bed is really the most wonderful thing in the world. The accumulated cares of the day slip away under the touch of soft little fingers clean at last after almost endless accumulations of dirt. The ever refractory curls lie quietly on the pillow as their oft time refractory owner finally yields to the caresses of the poppy-laden Lady.

The little eyelids close and your baby is gone—you do not know where, adventuring in lands you know not of, for even you who love him best cannot follow those tireless little feet into the Land of Dreams.

You know the fullness of content when you know the joy of putting the baby to bed, feeling sure that morning will bring him safely back from his journeyings, to the shelter of your arms.

Is there any sweeter sound on earth than his voice when he wakes to tell you, "It's light time now."? Light time and night time, "that eternal caravan of nights and days" that remorselessly is taking your baby from you, down the sunny paths of childhood to the portals of the future that you cannot see, leaving you only the memory of your baby—and that happiest of memories—putting the baby to bed.

So we give her seed and water to make her happy and comfortable and show her she is really welcome.

I'VE BEEN READING

"The Candle in the Cabin," a thin litle book of lyrical verse in which Vachel Lindsay expresses himself in a different manner from the ringing, sonorous rhythms which we have learned to expect from him. The poems are lovely, lilting things, and in them the author has expressed the familiar sounds of nature, in a new way. We liked such daintily inconsequential things as

"The Quail on her nest
For a guest" or—
"The Indian Summer wind grieves
With the falling of
The first leaves."

but best of all we liked the one he calls "One More Song."

"All I can bring is one more song,
Though I have brought you a thousand and one.
So it will be till my life is done.
I would set right the old world's wrong;
I would outbuild New York and Rome.
But all
I can bring home
Is one
More Song."

LITTLE JOE

The Sampler

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS.

IN order to be a success in any line one must learn to concentrate his mind and energy. The mind that flits restlessly from one thought to another cannot think constructively. It is hard for hands that move impatiently from one thing to another to finish a task well. A vital problem of the now-a-days home is to protect the children from the incessant appeal of distractions of the outside world, to see that they have a task and stick to it till it's finished. If there could be community co-operation on the part of mothers so that all little folks in a neighborhood had a definite task to do at a given time the problem would be largely solved for all and the children would receive invaluable training in habits of concentration.

DOROTHY Q sits sewing with mother
She is making a sampler like grandmother Taggart's;
Just so many stitches before she may play.
And sometimes she sighs,
But she won't let her eyes
She stitches and sews
Little figures in rows

Dorothy Q with her neat little stitches
A row of wee pine trees and sailor boys dancing,
And she threads her own needle and knots her own thread.
So that when she is old
In a frame blue and gold
And proudly some day
Her own grandchild will say,
"That was made by my grandmother Dorothy Q!"
